YANK BOMBERS BLAST JAPANESE AT HOLLANDIA

Nine Enemy Ships Sunk Or Damaged, Facilities On Ground Gutted

OPPOSITION IS WEAK

MacArthur Hints Raid One Of Heaviest Visited On Coastal City

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HQ., New Guinea, April 18 — Large formations of American fighter-escorted bombers were revealed today to have blasted again the big Japanese air base at Hollandia, New Guinea.

The attack paced a fresh series of widespread assaults in which nine enemy ships were sunk or damaged and ground facilities were gutted.

Only weak opposition was offered by the Japanese anti-aircraft gunners defending Hollandia, whose skies once were filled with flak and interceptors at the approach of any hostile formations. Although full details of the assault, carried out at noon Saturday, still are lacking, Gen. Douglas MacArthur hinted that it was one of the heaviest saturation raids yet visited upon that coastal village.

Big Raid Formation

Large numbers of heavy and medium bombers swept in behind a dense screen of fighter planes to rock Hollandia badly. Many buildings were demolished, shipping facilities were damaged and huge fires were started in fuel and supply storage areas.

Preliminary reports showed that airdrome facilities were hit heavily, at least one small vessel in the harbor left blazing, jetties fired and one shore battery ruined.

North of Hollandia, the planes roared over enemy-held Wake island where they bombed an airdrome, supply dumps and barracks areas, igniting fires and touching off a series of resounding blasts.

Meanwhile, Australian and Dutch airmen in Beaufort and Mitchell landed 23 tons of bombs on Koepang at the southern tip of Timor. The raiders remained over the target for nearly an hour, hitting warehouses and buildings near the beach and again causing conflagrations and explosions. One white-hot blaze could be seen 60 miles away.

Aussies Hit Roti

To the south, Aussie Beaufighters tore into Roti island just after dawn, destroyed three Japanese coastal vessels and damaged two others. General MacArthur communique added that throughout the Southwest Pacific theatre, six small enemy vessels were sunk and three others damaged.

Rabaul, the weakened New Britain base which the enemy apparently plans to use as the center of a last-ditch defense on that island, was hit with 84 tons of explosive and fire packets in the newest of its daily attacks. Medium and light bombers from the Solomon islands carried out the raid, concentrating on airdrome and supply installations.

In addition, spokesmen disclosed that South Pacific patrol bombers have struck on successive nights at Dublon island in the Truk lagoon, setting fires and causing explosions among important facilities.

SOLDIER GAINS DIVORCE

James E. Smith, a member of the Armed Forces, was granted a divorce from Mildred Smith in Common Pleas court Monday. He also gained custody of three minor children who were placed in the custody of his sister, Mrs. Rosetta Whaley, Deer Creek township.

NAZIS DIG IN FOR LAST DITCH STAND IN CITY

Two Soviet Armies, Moving Under Cover Of Big Guns, At Port Outskirts

tion of Chisinau (Kishinev) the Red Army tanks literally ground over beaten enemy troops.

The Red Army already had cleared the enemy from his last foothold across the river, by wiping out a Nazi bridgehead on the eastern bank of the Dneestr estuary southwest of captured Odessa. At this time of year, the river was at least three times its normal width due to floods precipitated by the Spring thaws in the Carpathian mountain passes.

Germans Worried

While the Russian campaign caused the Nazi high command much dismay, the Germans found nothing consoling in news from the diplomatic front. The British action in depriving Allied and neutral envoys of their immunity and certain time-honored privileges was interpreted by the enemy to indicate that the long-promised invasion of western Europe was imminent.

The German people were warned repeatedly by their leaders that the all-out Anglo-American blow would not now be long in coming; neutral circles tied up the unprecedented action of Britain with the current two-way Allied aerial offensive against Nazi communications.

A Berlin spokesman said "many signs" indicate the invasion "cannot be far away" and added that the Allies "might... win the first round."

Air Forces Active

The Allied air invasion of Europe appeared under way by daylight again, Nazi home radios warning of the approach of Allied warplanes while two transmitters in occupied France lapsed into sudden silence.

During the night, British Mosquito bombers stabbed at the industrial city of Cologne, and other RAF planes sowed mines in enemy waters.

An official communique from Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's headquarters credited American Fortress and Liberator crew members with destroying at least 25 enemy interceptors which sought to stop them from blasting the Balkan capitals of Sofia and Belgrade.

"Considerable damage" was inflicted by yesterday's U. S. raiders when they hit railway installations in both cities, as well as two key aircraft factories in the Yugoslavian capital.

Wilson's ground troops repulsed small enemy attacks on both the Anzio beachhead and main Fifth Army fronts, as well as on the sector held by the British Eighth Army. On the beachhead, the Allies advanced under cover of a strong artillery barrage and seized an advanced stronghold which the Nazis had taken several days ago.

Nine Japs Sunk

In the Southwest Pacific, nine Jap ships were sunk during the fresh series of U. S. air raids in which the main target was Hollandia, New Guinea.

A heavy new attack by four-motored bombers of the 10th U. S. Army Air Force on the Japanese-held Andaman islands in the Bay of Bengal was announced by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten. Yesterday, his communique said, long-range American fighter planes attacked He-Ho airfield in Burma, destroying seven enemy aircraft in the air and two on the ground.

No new developments of importance were reported immediately from the Imphal area of India, just across the Burma border, where Japanese penetrative thrusts are believed to have been halted. A front-line report from Northern Burma said that Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's "Marauders" operating in the hills east of Mogaung have killed 2,000 Japanese to date. Chinese forces under Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell penetrated to Warapung against stiff enemy resistance.

to charities and other unusual expenditures by the cost-plus firms, where the government pays the bill.

"In some places a cost-plus firm would hire the foreman and an entire crew away from a contractor with a fixed-price contract. Visits to fixed-price contract plants revealed much greater efficiency in operation."

Truman committee members, Ferguson said, found that in one shipyard experienced men, engaged in repairing aircraft carriers and other ships, were drafted into the army and put on jobs such as that of chauffeur. The effect on industry, he said, is serious.

Ferguson's statement of information gained in his inquiry into cost-plus contracts coincided with that of Sen. Murray (D) Mont., who also made an investigation trip.

750,000 Men Needed For Army In '44

1 and draft calls were made accordingly.

Steadily decreasing losses and suddenly improved draft deliveries the last week in March, he said, carried the Army past its goal for April 1, however and the "brakes" had to be applied suddenly—postponement of calls for men over 26.

Stimson admitted this presented a difficult problem for selective service, but added:

"No human intelligence can tell the emergencies which are going to arise on any one of our battle-fronts or the losses we are going to incur with the varying fortunes of war. No human intelligence can thus tell us beforehand the varying requirements in men which will be needed at a given time in the future. We cannot afford to be caught too low. The safety of the nation is involved. If we estimate too high, we promptly correct our estimates when we have the facts."

Stimson said while a variation of 100,000 between estimated and subsequent actual strength appears very large in a newspaper headline, it is less than two percent of the total strength of the Army and not an unreasonable margin for error in estimates.

The Army, he concluded, will take every precaution to avoid error in its future manpower estimates and endeavor to reduce its already low percentage in that regard "if it is humanly possible."

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO MRS. CORA C. McADAM

A heart attack proved fatal Monday afternoon for Mrs. Cora C. McAdam, 63, wife of Alonzo McAdam at their farm home near New Holland.

Mrs. McAdam who had gone into the chicken house to gather eggs about 5 o'clock was found dead, by her husband twenty minutes later. She was a member of one of the community's best known families. The youngest of a family of 12 children of Gideon and Ann Elizabeth Bryant she is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Harry Smith, Monroe township and Mrs. Paul Maddux, Springfield, 5 grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Mada Fricke, Washington, C. H.

Funeral service will be held at the residence on Thursday at 3 o'clock EWT. Rev. Reed of the Methodist church officiating with burial in the New Holland cemetery.

COULDN'T REMEMBER

NEW YORK — In a lecture on journalism at Columbia university, Margaret Case Harriman, well known writer, was asked if she ever made friends with any of her subjects for writing. Yes, she replied, life-long friends of two of them. Asked to name them she said, "Larry Adler and—ah, let's see, Larry Adler and... she never could remember the name of the other."

BUT, CAN HE COLLECT?

CHICAGO — An argument over a second cup of coffee in a Loop restaurant wound up with a jury award to Harold Winters, salesman, of $25,000. In his suit against the restaurant, Winters said he was refused a second cup in the coffee-rattled days of January, 1943. He shared his wife's first cup, got into an argument with the waiter and suffered a fracture of the leg.

SIMPLIFIED TAX BILL SCANNED BY HOUSE BOARD

Measure Expected To Be Introduced For Vote In Two Weeks

plan to be contained in the new bill will:

1. Permit persons earning up to $5,000 and receiving not more than $100 from sources not subject to withholding to file only a copy of their tax withholding receipt. This will affect an estimated 30 million taxpayers.
2. Enable ten million others to use a simple table which will show their entire tax; the remaining 10 million taxpayers will report in more detail but in "simpler form" than at present.
3. Abolish the Victory tax and merge the present normal and surtax levies into a single surtax.
4. Change personal exemptions to $500 for a single person, $1,000 for married couples and $500 for each dependent.
5. Give taxpayers with incomes up to $5,000 a flat deduction allowance of 10 percent of income. Above $5,000 the standard deduction allowance will be $500. Deductions above the standard allowance may be credited, however, merely by listing them.

DEFERMENTS REQUESTED BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Names of two more registrants of the local board of selective service have been forwarded to the State headquarters of Selective Service for deferment consideration. They are Richard W. Penn, Berkeley, California, whose case was appealed by the University of California and the War department, U. S. Engineer office at Berkeley and that of Samuel N. Cherry, San Antonio, Texas whose deferment was requested by the War department, regional deferment committee No. 7, Kelly Field, Texas.

Both cases will be forwarded by the state headquarters to the Boards of Appeal having jurisdiction over the territory in which the registrants are employed.

AIR OF GRIM WAITING HOVERS OVER ENGLAND

Government Moves To Prevent Leakage Of Invasion Tips

mated that representatives of 43 nations were affected by the ban.

The official announcement declared that the step was taken "in the unprecedented circumstances created by the military operations impending in the present year" and promised that "these restrictions will, of course, be removed at the earliest possible moment."

Tension High

It brought a new air of tension to all Britain; an air which was reflected openly in enemy "fishing" expeditions. In propaganda broadcasts, enemy spokesmen declared that the Allied invasion now "will not be long delayed," but added that no climactic events are expected in the "next few days."

Danish reports reaching London by way of Sweden said that the Germans have rushed to completion the sowing of a three-mile-wide belt of mines off the west coast of Jutland from Lister Deeb to Hainholm as a defense measure.

From Zurich, according to Reuters' News Agency, came a statement from a well-informed source that "intensification of the Allied air offensive on communications in Germany and German-occupied territory is regarded as a sign that invasion is imminent." These sources said that the current series of attacks on rail lines "would be comparatively valueless unless followed up immediately by land operations," for otherwise the damage caused could be repaired quickly by the Germans.

Preliminaries Start

(A correspondent in London reported that "southeast Europe, particularly Romania, is worth watching very closely for the next few weeks" and added: from what we can see in London the preparatory military and political battles for the western invasion are being fought there right now."

(Another correspondent, also in London, said that prior to the ban "the Spanish embassy here, for instance, has been sending regular couriers by plane to Lisbon. Any information on military preparations picked up in Britain by the Spaniards could be transmitted to the Germans within a few hours. Even less pro-Nazi travelers than Franco's men might carry reports that would be valuable to the Germans... such gigantic military preparations, are being made on the island of Britain that many people undoubtedly will be aware of the approach of the zero hour in spite of secrecy, forbidden areas and the like. This fact has made necessary the temporary diplomatic isolation of the entire country.")

ONLY 14 MEN IN SERVICE ASK FOR BALLOTS

Despite the fight that is being waged over the right to vote by members of the Armed Forces only 14 Pickaway county men have made applications for absentee voters blanks, with the local board of elections. Included in the total are two requests from men on overseas duty.

With the application to the service men the board is also sending the ballot, both forms to be returned at the same time.

The period for obtaining the blanks opened Monday April 10 and will close May 4. All ballots must be in the hands of the clerk of the board of elections by noon May 5, although there is a possibility of an extension of time for the return of ballots from service men.

dress and apron, apparently belonging to the victim, was floating nearby.

The body was found yesterday about 200 yards from the water's edge, about 200 feet from where the first headless victim was found floating in the water Sunday afternoon.

The second discovery was made as state patrolmen and sheriff's deputies sought clues in the first case.

The body of the first victim, similarly decapitated, was that of a woman of about 50, who was short and stout. Her left leg also was severed.

Sheriff Jack Stotler said the heads of both victims apparently had been severed with a fishing hatchet or similar instrument.

Coroner Woolery said body of the second victim had been in the water perhaps 24 hours when discovered and that the bodies of both apparently had been placed in the water about the same time.

WFA Report Shows Three Percent Worker Decline From April 1943

in view of indications farmers will plant 374 million acres in 1944—13 million more than were in production last year.

Some help promised, however, a "better organized" WFA farm labor program probably will take up some slack during the planting and harvesting periods. City workers who last year helped out in harvesting will be more experienced this year and therefore more productive, he said.

WFA's report further disclosed that the index of supply of farm workers available April 1 this year was 54 percent of the 1935-39 average—"slightly smaller" than the percentage announced on the same date last year.

Migratory workers, war prisoners, foreign importees—such as Mexicans, Bahamians and Jamaicans—townspeople, furloughed soldiers, Japanese evacuees and other persons doing two days of farm work a week are included in the employment estimates, WFA said.

YOUTHS RELEASED

The two teen age boys who were taken before Judge Lemuel Weldon Monday for hearing were lectured by the judge and placed on probation. The boys were picked up by the local police at 3 o'clock Sunday morning on South Scioto street and had in their possession a billfold belonging to Mouser Crayne. The billfold was turned over to Mr. Crayne, who said it had been stolen from his unlocked automobile parked in front of his home in South Scioto street.

REPORTED MISSING In December, 1942, Lieut. (j.g.) Carl Zeldier, youthful mayor of Milwaukee before he entered the service, now is believed to be alive and a Nazi prisoner in South America, according to a copyrighted piece in the Milwaukee Sentinel. The Rev. Clemens H. Zeldier, younger brother of the mayor, said he was convinced that Carl's ship was captured in the South Atlantic by an enemy raider or submarine and that its crews now is being held incommunicado. The Rev. Mr. Zeldier said he believed the fate of his brother remained a mystery for nearly 18 months because if all the fantastic details were told they might involve some governments once friendly to the Axis nations. ### ASHVILLE

The local troop of Boy Scouts proved themselves to be quite adept at "boxing" the compass and in tying knots at the All-County "Scout Get-Together" held in Circleville Saturday evening.

In a contest the local members placed the cardinal points of the compass in 47 seconds, thereby winning first place. They also won first place in the contest featuring the tying of ten knots.

Scoutmasters Charles D. Eversole and Don Nance wish to thank all the parents and friends who backed the troop by their presence and helped the local boys win the "Guests Attendance Banner." Approximately 60 parents, friends, and scouts attended the activities.

The Ashville troop, consisting of 30 boys, will enjoy a swimming party Thursday evening at the Columbus Y.M.C.A. from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Dr. G. R. Gardner, who was quite ill for several days, is again able to be "out and around."

Mayor Tom Acord with the approval of the village council appointed William S. Plum to fill the vacancy existing in the local water-works board. Mr. Plum will serve the unexpired term of the late Carl A. Higley.

The change has come about so quietly that many are not aware that the Ashville teaching staff now includes eight married ladies, a far cry from a few years back, when many boards of education refused to consider applications from married women. Married lady teachers in the local school include Mrs. Marvina Kraft, Mrs. Louise Cromley, Mrs. Dwight Irwin, Mrs. Grace Kiger, Mrs. Mildred Kuhn, Mrs. Shirley Cooper, Mrs. O. E. Russell and Mrs. H. D. Fudge. Mrs. Helen Hedges, Mrs. Blodwen Johnson, and Mrs. Edith Hudson have also done substitute teaching in Ashville this year. Mrs. Josephine Bowers has been teaching at Jackson township for some time, and Mrs. Helen Hedges will join the Jackson faculty Thursday. Mrs. Virginia Boyer has been teaching in Circleville for several weeks. Guess the hand that rocks the cradle also teaches the youth now.

Fred E. Brobst, instrumental music instructor in the Harrison township schools, was unable to attend school Monday because of an attack of the flu.

I attended the meeting of the village council Monday evening to observe how "His Honor" presided over the meeting. Tom, who reminds us in appearance of ex-spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Truex, 150 Hayward avenue. Before returning to Aberdeen he will spend part of his furlough with his wife, Mrs. Virginia Truex, of Portsmouth, Va., which is his former home. On his return to Aberdeen, he will be eligible to further assignment which will qualify him for a sergeants rating.

James F. Rockwell, New Holland, newly inducted into the U. S. Army, has been sent forward from the Reception Center at Fort Thomas, Ky., to Shepard Field, Texas, for training in the U. S. Army Air Forces.

His "boot" training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill, and general naval procedure. During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruit to determine whether he will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate active duty at sea.

His recruit training completed, the seaman will spend a period of leave at his home.

Ora Melvin Lemaster, fireman 1/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lemaster, Circleville, has completed basic training at the Submarine School, Submarine Base, New London, Conn., for duty with our growing fleet of overseas fighters.

FLYER TELLS KIWANIS ABOUT BOMBING RAIDS

Highlights of 25 missions over occupied Europe were described to Kiwanians Monday evening by Technical Sergeant E. J. Kin, now stationed at Lockbourne Air Base. The sergeant said, however, that his greatest thrill from the time of enlistment in the air corps was seeing brilliantly lighted Washington, D. C., after spending 15 months in the European black-out.

Corporal Henry Gierhart showed a two reel motion picture, "Battle of Britain."

Next Monday night Kiwanis will be addressed by Arthur Harper of the state department of education, who will discuss "Conservation of Natural Resources."

Announcement was made that Kiwanis will sponsor a local appearance of the Highway Department Minstrel May 10. The show has appeared in several cities of the district and is recognized as fine entertainment.

INSPECTION RECORDS ON TIRES SHOULD BE KEPT

Tire inspection records will still be needed even though compulsory periodic inspections of tires will be discontinued after April 20.

OPA officials caution motorists that the tire inspection records will be required for the renewal of gasoline rations and must be submitted to local boards on application of supplemental rations.

In addition, when a car owner wishes to replace a tire, he will need his tire inspection record to check serial number of the tire before replacement can be made. Before the local board can issue a certificate to purchase a new tire, an authorized tire inspector must certify the need for replacement.

Easing of inspection requirements for passenger cars does not affect the truck tire inspection program.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON
NEW NAME FOR 4-F's
WASHINGTON — A new alphabetical name for 4-F's who refuse to work in essential jobs was proposed when Major General Lewis B. Hershey, the Selective Service director, and other officials testified on labor draft legislation at a closed-door meeting of the house military affairs committee.
The name is MUGS—i. e., men unfit for general service. It was proposed informally while Hershey was discussing the possibility of establishing work camps for 4-F shirkers.
"We can't handle this like CCC camps," the Selective Service boss said. "When a CCC boy refused to live up to regulations, we sent him home. But there should be military discipline for the small minority of deferred 4-Fers who are not patriotic enough to work in essential jobs while other young men are fighting." Hershey said that only a handful of deferred workers were selfish or unpatriotic enough to refuse to switch to essential jobs.
"Well, I'm for singling out these home-front slackers," spoke up Representative Paul Kilday of Texas. "They should be put under military discipline and made to wear a distinctive uniform so every mother who has a boy in the service will know who they are."
The Texas congressman went on to add that, in his opinion, there should be less 4-F "loafers" if the government was franker with the American people about the war.
"There's been too much hush-hushing of war news to suit me," declared Kilday. "The spirit on the home front is good, but it would be a lot better if the people were told the truth about the tough fight we are up against. Some hard-boiled spokesmen for the War department should get on the radio and tell the people exactly how we stand. Yes, and he shouldn't quibble about our casualties, either. It would be a healthy thing, in my opinion, if the people were told our exact losses at Cassino and other engagements. The effect would be to make folks on the home front madder at the enemy and they would work a lot harder."
STIMSON ON JEWISH QUESTION
Secretary of War Stimson has written a letter to Congressman Marcantonio of New York white-washing Lieutenant Albert W. Ambros against anti-Semitism. Lieutenant Ambros, last Summer, wrote two letters to a superior officer about his new command at the station hospital at the Florence Internment Camp, Florence, Ariz., expressing his happiness over his new assignment because it was the first he had had where there were no Jewish officers.
Congressman Marcantonio, who last Summer battled the Navy on anti-Semitism within the ranks, protested to Secretary of War Stimson in January concerning Lieutenant Ambros' utterances.
Immediately, two brigadier generals and one colonel, representing the inspector general's office and the general staff, called at the congressman's office. They conferred at some length, but Marcantonio says they were not so much interested in the authenticity of the letters (he showed them the originals) as in how he got them. For anyone to turn such letters over to a congressman was, they felt, "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."
Recently, Marcantonio was advised by Secretary Stimson that the matter had been investigated and no action would be taken. "While the expressions used by Lieutenant Ambros in his personal correspondence to Colonel Kirmes were unfortunate," Stimson wrote, "nothing has been established to (Continued on Page Eight)

DIET AND HEALTH
Sound Heart Unharm'd By Active Sports Program
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
"MOST HIGH schools have intensified their physical education work because of the war. Some have installed commando courses. How will the adolescent heart stand up under these demands?"
The question asked here really comes down to the old subject of athlete's heart. We used to hear about athletes who had exercised so much in youth that they had an abnormal enlargement of the heart and then later in life when they got soft this was too big for their body and the heart muscle fibers got replaced by fat, and this caused heart failure and a breakdown in health.
This conception of athlete's heart is mostly a myth. There is no evidence that a heart ever enlarges too much for the individual body's needs, nor that any unhappy consequences would follow if it did. There is no evidence that athletes who trained intensively when they were young break down with heart failure any more frequently in middle age than those who have not had such intensive training.
No Effect on Arteries
It is true that the breakdown which afflicts many men in middle age and early old age is due to hardening or changes in the arteries and that this condition centers on a form of heart failure, and that athletes are just as subject to arterial degeneration in middle age as the rest of the population, but no more. No one could say that intensive athletic exertion in youth predisposed to changes in the arteries, the pre-eminent heart disease of middle age.
To take such conspicuous examples as Walter Camp, football star and later athletic director, and Theodore Roosevelt, who led the strenuous life, both of whom died before the scriptural age limit and to ascribe their comparatively early deaths to the exertions of their youth is not an argument supported by the facts.
Exercise and Heart Trouble
Dr. Allen S. Johnson, an authority on such subjects, writing in "Hygeia," the health magazine, says:
"There is no convincing evidence that a healthy heart is damaged by strenuous or even violent exercise. Fatigue causes one to quit before one can injure the heart itself. But 30 years ago prospective athletes were forced to undergo little, if any, physical examination to determine their fitness for strenuous competitive athletics. In this era the blood pressure apparatus was just an intriguing gadget; the X-rays were not used for measuring the size of the heart, and the electrocardiograph was unknown. Nor was the importance of certain types of infection fully appreciated in relation to their predisposition to cardiac damage. In other words a certain number of aspiring athletes with already damaged or otherwise abnormal hearts were allowed to participate in sports which added insult to injury and set the stage for a cardiac breakdown later in life."
So I think we can dismiss the fears that the strenuous training high school pupils are now getting will cripple them or their hearts in after life.
As a matter of fact most high school boys do not have enough physical conditioning. Young men appear before the draft boards and pass the examination which determines whether they have any organ abnormality satisfactorily, but even though sound to this extent, they show pitiable inefficiency when strenuous physical conditioning is instituted.

NORTH TO DANGER by TOM GILL
SYNOPSIS
Having helped Colin Rae, of the Hendrick's Bay Company, to escape mysterious pursuers at Winnipeg, the youthful Irina Meredith went north to meet her elderly fiancé, Rodney Selkirk, at Learmonth. Colin is investigating the seemingly frail, mild mannered Jonathan Dove, head of two Indian schools and a power among trappers. "Once I heard him called the most dangerous man in Canada," Colin told Irina. Eluding Dove, left behind in Winnipeg, Colin and Irina flew in a small plane, owned and piloted by Blair Benedict, former schoolgirl chum of Colin. Heavy snow forced her to make an emergency landing at Trappers Lake where the veteran Alec Gunn sheltered the trio. Next morning, Alec and Blair started on foot for Learmonth, Irina and Colin soon following. The meeting between Irina and Selkirk seems most happy and romantic. Later, Colin told Selkirk what he knows of the murder of Van Downe, another Company agent, and why he still suspects Dove though the latter has been cleared officially. He shows Rodney a 1917 photo, found behind Van Downe's desk, featuring a group of R.C.A.F. flyers, and thinks one of them is Dove. As they are talking, the latter arrives, and soon asks Colin, "Is it to be a finish fight?"
CHAPTER TEN
Colin's first impulse was to reply that the company had nothing to do with his coming to Learmonth. But that might be precisely what Dove wanted to know, and instead of answering, he asked, "Why should I want to interfere with you?"
"Because I threaten the virtual monopoly of your company in the fur trade here. You don't relish the prospect that this winter most of the trappers will bring their pelts to me. The profits that would go into your directors' pockets will go back to the trappers themselves. But you—"

BIBLE FOR THE BLIND
THE Bible has now been put into a "talking book" for the blind. Heretofore only selections have been available. Now the whole Bible is supplied on 169 record disks, each of which plays for half an hour. Specially trained readers and clergymen have made these records, says the American Foundation for the Blind, which makes the announcement. Not every one can do it. A pleasing voice and ability to hold an even reading pace are essential.
Little by little, the lot of handicapped people is being relieved of some of its grimness.

DEATHS AND RUMORS
AS might have been expected, rumors are abroad that Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly the Atlantic and the first woman to fly alone, four years later, was not lost after all in her 1937 flight across the Pacific. The story now is that she fell into the hands of the Japanese, who ever since have for unknown reasons kept her prisoner. Of course no one knows this, but lack of knowledge never stopped the romantically inclined from speculating.
Such tales are often told of people who disappear without witnesses surviving to certify their deaths. Lord Kitchener, the British war minister, was expected by many to return somehow, perhaps from a German prison camp, long after the ship on which he was travelling went down in 1916.
That may be one reason why the Russians publicly display Lenin's corpse for millions to see that he is dead, and so head off possible imposters. They had plenty of trouble in the early seventeenth century with a man who came to be called in Russian history the "False Demetri." He claimed to be a son of Ivan the Terrible, who, it was believed, had been assassinated in early childhood.
The world will wish to be assured on good authority of the actual death of Adolf Hitler and his gang.

WORLD POLICING
COLUMNIST Don Marquis of the old New York Tribune once wrote a sardonic poem which ended with the words: "Thank God, the world—in spots—is well policed." That rather reassuring statement naturally comes to mind when a newspaper reader observes the headline, "Plans to Police World Revised." If the old Don could come back and take a look at things now, he would probably say that it's high time for such revision.
And there is the person, or the power, that will undertake in the new, post war world about to emerge, the job that was tackled last time half-heartedly, with notable lack of success? Policing this modern world, in peace or war, in sickness or health, is certainly a serious job. Secretary Hull is said to be receiving proposals on the subject. But the average citizen may well spend a few weeks of sober thought before rushing to the telegraph office with his solution.

NEW NAME FOR 4-F's

WASHINGTON — A new alphabetical name for 4-F's who refuse to work in essential jobs was proposed when Major General Lewis B. Hershey, the Selective Service director, and other officials testified on labor draft legislation at a closed-door meeting of the house military affairs committee.

The name is MUGS—i. e., men unfit for general service. It was proposed informally while Hershey was discussing the possibility of establishing work camps for 4-F shirkers.

"We can't handle this like CCC camps," the Selective Service boss said. "When a CCC boy refused to live up to regulations, we sent him home. But there should be military discipline for the small minority of deferred 4-Fers who are not patriotic enough to work in essential jobs while other young men are fighting." Hershey said that only a handful of deferred workers were selfish or unpatriotic enough to refuse to switch to essential jobs.

"Well, I'm for singling out these home-front slackers," spoke up Representative Paul Kilday of Texas. "They should be put under military discipline and made to wear a distinctive uniform so every mother who has a boy in the service will know who they are."

The Texas congressman went on to add that, in his opinion, there should be less 4-F "loafers" if the government was franker with the American people about the war.

"There's been too much hush-hushing of war news to suit me," declared Kilday. "The spirit on the home front is good, but it would be a lot better if the people were told the truth about the tough fight we are up against. Some hard-boiled spokesman for the War department should get on the radio and tell the people exactly how we stand. Yes, and he shouldn't quibble about our casualties, either. It would be a healthy thing, in my opinion, if the people were told our exact losses at Cassino and other engagements. The effect would be to make folks on the home front madder at the enemy and they would work a lot harder."

STIMSON ON JEWISH QUESTION

Secretary of War Stimson has written a letter to Congressman Marcantonio of New York white-washing Lieutenant Albert W. Amb's alleged anti-Semitism. Lieutenant Amb's, last Summer, wrote two letters to a superior officer about his new command at the station hospital at the Florence Internment Camp, Florence, Ariz., expressing his happiness over his new assignment because it was the first he had had where there were no Jewish officers.

Congressman Marcantonio, who last Summer battled the Navy on anti-Semitism within the ranks, protested to Secretary of War Stimson in January concerning Lieutenant Amb's utterances.

Immediately, two brigadier generals and one colonel, representing the inspector general's office and the general staff, called at the congressman's office. They conferred at some length, but Marcantonio says they were not so much interested in the authenticity of the letters (he showed them the originals) as in how he got them. For anyone to turn such letters over to a congressman was, they felt, "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Recently, Marcantonio was advised by Secretary Stimson that the matter had been investigated and no action would be taken.

"While the expressions used by Lieutenant Amb in his personal correspondence to Colonel Kirmes were unfortunate," Stimson wrote, "nothing has been established to

Sound Heart Unharm'd By Active Sports Program

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"MOST HIGH schools have intensified their physical education work because of the war. Some have installed commando courses. How will the adolescent heart stand up under these demands? The question asked here really comes down to the old subject of athlete's heart. We used to hear about athletes who had exercised so much in youth that they had an abnormal enlargement of the heart and then later in life when they got soft this was too big for their body and the heart muscle fibers got replaced by fat, and this caused heart failure and a breakdown in health.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This conception of athlete's heart is mostly a myth. There is no evidence that a heart ever enlarges too much for the individual body's needs, nor that any unhappy consequences would follow if it did. There is no evidence that athletes who trained intensively when they were young break down with heart failure any more frequently in middle age than those who have not had such intensive training.

No Effect on Arteries

It is true that the breakdown which afflicts many men in middle age and early old age is due to hardening or changes in the arteries and that this condition centers on a form of heart failure, and that athletes are just as subject to arterial degeneration in middle age as the rest of the population, but no more. No one could say that intensive athletic exertion in youth predisposed to changes in the arteries, the pre-trained heart disease of middle age.

To take such conspicuous examples as Walter Camp, football star and later athletic director, and Theodore Roosevelt, who led the strenuous life, both of whom died before the scriptural age limit and to ascribe their comparatively early deaths to the exertions of their youth is not an argument supported by the facts.

Exercise and Heart Trouble

Dr. Allen S. Johnson, an authority on such subjects, writing in "Hygeia," the health magazine, says:

"There is no convincing evidence that a healthy heart is damaged by strenuous or even violent exercise. Fatigue causes one to quit before one can injure the heart itself. But 30 years ago prospective athletes were forced to undergo little, if any, physical examination to determine their fitness for strenuous competitive athletics. In this era the blood pressure apparatus was just an intriguing gadget; the X-rays were not used for measuring the size of the heart, and the electrocardiograph was unknown. Nor was the importance of certain types of infection fully appreciated in relation to their predisposition to cardiac damage. In other words a certain number of aspiring athletes with already damaged or otherwise abnormal hearts were allowed to participate in sports which added insult to injury and set the stage for a cardiac breakdown later in life."

So I think we can dismiss the fears that the strenuous training high school pupils are now getting will cripple them or their hearts in after life.

As a matter of fact most high school boys do not have enough physical conditioning. Young men appear before the draft boards and pass the examination which determines whether they have any organ abnormality satisfactorily, but even though sound to this extent, they show pitiable inefficiency when strenuous physical conditioning is instituted.

NORTH TO DANGER by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

Having helped Colin Rae, of the Hendrik's Bay Company, to escape mysterious pursuers at Winnipeg, the youthful Irina Meredith went north to meet her elderly fiancé, Rodney Selkirk, at Learmonth. Colin is investigating the seemingly frail, mild mannered Jonathan Dove, head of two Indian schools and a power among trappers. "Once I heard him called the most dangerous man in Canada," Colin told Irina. Eluding Dove, left behind in Winnipeg, Colin and Irina flew in a small plane, owned and piloted by Blair Benedict, former schoolgirl chum of Colin. Heavy snow forced her to make an emergency landing at Trappers Lake where the veteran Alec Gunn sheltered the trio. Next morning, Alec and Blair started on foot for Learmonth, Irina and Colin soon following. The meeting between Irina and Selkirk seems most happy and romantic. Later, Colin told Selkirk what he knows of the murder of Van Downe, another Company agent, and why he still suspects Dove though the latter has been cleared officially. He shows Rodney a 1917 photo, found behind Van Downe's desk, featuring a group of R.C.A.F. flyers, and thinks one of them is Dove. As they are talking, the latter arrives, and says, "I'm glad," Dove's voice seemed a shade less tight. "Then that brings us back to our original question. Why are you here?" "This is my home. I was born here."

CHAPTER TEN

Colin's first impulse was to reply that the company had nothing to do with his coming to Learmonth. But that might be precisely what Dove wanted to know, and instead of answering, he asked, "Why should I want to interfere with you?"

"Because I threaten the virtual monopoly of your company in the fur trade here. You don't relish the prospect that this winter most of the trappers will bring their pelts to me. The profits that would go into your directors' pockets will go back to the trappers themselves. But you—"

Dove's eyes had shifted to the opening door, and, following his gaze, Colin saw Irina step from the inner room.

"So quiet—" she began, then, catching sight of Dove, she stopped short, and Colin read the question in her eyes: how had he reached Learmonth?

Selkirk introduced them, and Dove bowed over the girl's hand. "You are very lovely," he said simply. "Here in this bleak north country we should be grateful for beauty." Smiling, he looked up at Selkirk. "I was on the verge of quarreling with you when this lady saved me. I kept forgetting that nothing is ever solved by argument. Here is a better suggestion: bring Miss Meredith and Mr. Rae over to the school for dinner." Dove paused. "Let's say Wednesday, when the last boat comes in. Then I can show you what I am trying to do. You may not agree that my work is good, but we can at least be enemies on a basis of understanding."

Dove looked toward the girl. "You persuaded them," he urged. With growing wonder Colin watched the little man struggle into his overcoat. He was beyond prediction. The very thing Rae wanted most was to get inside the school, and now Dove himself was offering that opportunity—but not until Wednesday. Too much might happen before Wednesday, and Rae had just decided to find some reason for an earlier visit when he heard Dove call his name.

"Could I speak with you outside, Mr. Rae?" Dove was asking.

Like the shock of an electric spark, something within Colin signaled danger. Dove's face had become more masklike, and the eyes not quite the friendly eyes of a moment past. Silently Rae followed him out into the sunshine.

Dove led him a few feet down the path; then suddenly he whirled. "Do you still believe I killed Van Downe?"

The question came with the jolting force of a physical blow; but, when he answered, Colin's voice was quiet as Dove's, and even more cold.

"If I were sure you killed Van Downe, you would be dead now. Van Downe was my friend."

"That means you haven't decided."

"It means that if I had been on the jury, I would have done exactly what they did—exonerate you."

"I'm glad," Dove's voice seemed a shade less tight. "Then that brings us back to our original question. Why are you here?"

"This is my home. I was born here."

Again that searching scrutiny, while Dove buttoned his coat, and now, as if he had dismissed the subject, he said: "Come over to the school Wednesday. Whether the work I am doing is important or not, only the future can say. But I know this: it is the work I intend to carry on in spite of any opposition. So, if the company sent you here to fight me, I can promise you a fight to the last ditch."

Dove took a few steps down the path, then glanced back, and Colin saw that he was smiling. "You're wondering how I got to Learmonth so soon, aren't you?"

"Yes. How did you?"

The smile broadened. "Ever thought of taking a night train to The Pas and chartering a plane there? It's a pleasant flight."

Prey to a dozen unanswered questions, Colin watched Dove walk down the path. What had Dove learned? For himself, Colin felt he had learned nothing. ... Rousing himself, he turned back toward the bungalow, where, eyes wide with wonder, Irina ran up to him. "How did he ever get here?" She was breathless with excitement.

"Said he chartered a plane from The Pas." Then, to Selkirk, "Can we check on that?"

"I think so."

"Let's do," Colin closed the door. "Well, how did Mr. Jonathan Dove strike you?"

Selkirk's sensitive face reflected his indecision. "I still can't believe that man is a murderer. And he certainly didn't seem unfriendly to you. It doesn't make sense, Colin. Yesterday he tries to do you in; today he invites you to dinner at the school."

"I think it makes perfect sense," Colin answered. "Don't forget it's easier to do away with people in a city than it is here. And besides, Dove is puzzled. He's been working on the conviction that I was bringing information to Winnipeg. Nothing less than that could have started him into following me down from Wolverine. But now he finds I only wanted to come here. So he's uncertain about me, and he realizes he has nothing to lose, and maybe a lot to gain, by being friendly until he finds out what I'm up to. Meanwhile, I don't intend to go the way Van Downe went."

Selkirk laid a hand on Colin's sleeve. "You're not letting your imagination do things to you?"

"Maybe. In a game like this the man with the best imagination stays alive longest." Rae glanced at his watch. "If Miss Meredith is going to the inn, I'll take her down. I may stay there myself for a few days."

"We'll all go together," Selkirk picked up Irina's bag. "You're about to meet Ma Corrigan," he told her. "She runs the inn, and she's one of the grandest women in the North."

"Only," Colin cautioned, "don't mind what she says."

A twenty-minute walk took them to a long rambling building that fronted the river, opening the door, Selkirk led Irina into a large combination living and dining room where a blazing fire crackled. There was comfort and cheerful welcome in that warm, well-lighted room, and at sight of the fireplace Irina gave a cry of delight. Running forward, she held out both hands.

"It's like the big fireplace at home," she called back to Selkirk. "Remember?"

Footsteps sounded from the kitchen; a hearty voice boomed, "It's time you were back, Colin, you tramp!" and, wiping her hands on her apron, Ma Corrigan entered the room.

A vigorous, middle-aged woman with graying hair, Ma Corrigan was undoubtedly the most respected woman in Learmonth, and perhaps the most feared. She knew everyone—breeds, Indians, and whites. She entertained few illusions, either about herself or others, and this, combined with her outspoken frankness, had earned her more than one enemy.

Wife of a Hendrik's Bay trader, she had opened the inn after her husband's death and in fifteen years made it famous throughout northern Canada. Later, with her savings, she began to branch out as a "free trader," buying furs from the Cree Indians, traveling alone with her dog team in winter weather that often fell to fifty below. She knew the value of furs, and more important still she knew the personalities of the men she traded with; the result was she often drove a sharper bargain than many of the Bay men.

The years had won no major victories over Ma Corrigan—she was too busy to grow old. Her eyes were still alive with interest; the quick, firm set had lost none of its resilience.

And now, taking Colin by the arm, she marched him to the nearest window and very deliberately looked him over. At length, as if satisfied, she nodded. "You'll do," she decided. "You had me worried when I heard you were down in Winnipeg, working for a magazine. What kind of trade is that for a man your size to be playing with?"

Colin laughed. "It only lasted a year."

"Well, I can't see that it's hurt you. You've always been going at half cock on some outlandish business. When do you settle down?"

"Never, I hope."

Ma Corrigan snorted, but Selkirk interposed. "Ma, this is Irina Meredith, the woman I'm going to marry."

Slowly Irina turned from the fireplace, and slowly she approached, saying no word, as if awaiting judgment, and to Colin it seemed that either by instinct or design Irina had chosen the one best way to win the older woman's friendship.

Then he saw Ma Corrigan smile and knew that judgment had been passed.

Do not let the largeness of your enterprise deter you. You have intellectual ability and physical strength to help and guide you. Travel and unexpected changes are foreseen for you in the next 12 months, and these will ultimately prove beneficial. Do not hesitate to undertake new work or responsibilities, but watch expenditures. The child born on this date will be thoughtful, sincere, prudent, ambitious given to the arts and occultism, and fond of travel. A successful career is portended.

She spoke of his leaving Russia because he saw that Bolshevism and anarchism were ruining all that was fine in Russian culture.

Rachmaninoff came to America in 1918 and Mrs. Reichelderfer spoke of his contributions to American music as "immense." She said that he was never quite certain to which phase of music he should have devoted his life, so he was at once composer, pianist and conductor.

Mrs. Martin Cromley played Rachmaninoff's "Humoreske" Opus 10, No. 5, immediately after the discussion of his life and music by Mrs. Reichelderfer. Mrs. Defenbaugh chose for her two solos, "Field Beloved" and "Deep in Love Was I."

Rounding out the fine choice of selections by this gifted man, "Waltz" and "Tarentelle" from the 2nd suite for two pianos, were played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke and Mrs. Theodore L. Huston.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Guard Victory Seedlings Against "Damping Off"

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

EVERY VICTORY gardener who raises his own seedlings must be constantly alert for signs of "damping off" among his precious plants. "Damping off" is a disease of seedling plants which is fos- tered by excessive moisture in the flats in which seedlings are grown, by overcrowding of plants, lack of air circulation, high humidity and lack of sunshine. The disease can be prevented, but there is nothing which can be done to save plants actually afflicted with it.

The illustration on the left of the accompanying Garden-Graph shows a flat of healthy seedlings which have escaped "damping off" because soil, seeds and the con- tainer itself were sterilized to pre- vent the disease from developing.

The illustration on the right of the Garden-Graph shows a flat with broken rows of seedlings, the plantlets areas showing the extent of loss due to "damping off."

To check the spread of "damp- ing off" to the entire flat of seed- lings in which the disease has made its appearance, the afflicted plants must immediately be dug out, and the soil surrounding them removed. Following removal of diseased plants and infected soil, the entire flat should be top- dressed with a thin layer of sand or powdered sulphur.

YOUR GOOD NEIGHBOR For 42 Years

WHAT we like best to hear people say of us is "Penney's is a neighborly store." And that's what we do hear... often!

For at Penney's we have never outgrown the sim- ple, friendly way of doing business that makes people feel welcome and at home.

We've never outgrown it—in all our 42 years. Back in April 1902, Mr. Penney opened his first store in Kemmerer, Wyoming—a store devoted to friendly service and thrifty prices. And the spirit of that first store has spread to every one of our stores, in over 1600 American communities.

The people who work here at Penney's are neigh- bors of yours and they try to act as good neighbors should. They sympathize with your likes and dis- likes. They belong to this town!

And so does the store where they work! That's why shopping here is so easy, so pleasant!

In time of peace, each passing Penney anniversary was a time for celebration and ceremony.

But this year, upon our 42nd Anniversary, we celebrate simply with a reaffirmation of the Penney spirit—a determination to remain as homelike and neighborly as our many friends expect us to be.

Chicago Cub Outfielders Are Two Deep And They Pack Plenty of Power At Home Plate

Ival Goodman

Andy Pafko

Bill Nicholson

Ed Sauer

Dom Dalesandro

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor
IS THERE an outfielder in the house?

Most of the major league managers may try to duck that question but not so Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs, strangely, have not only "an" outfielder in the house but six of 'em and all boys who could or have played regularly.

There's plenty of power in that Cub outfield, too, judging by the batting averages of the group, old and new members.

Wilson's first line of defense, probably will be Bill Nicholson, the blinding blond bomber, in right—unless he stays on his farm; Andy Pafko, batting champion in the Pacific Coast league last year, in center, and Ival Goodman, veteran fly chaser formerly with the Reds, in left.

Sauer Heavy Hitter
The second team of gardeners includes Ed Sauer, batting champion in the Southern Association; Dom Dalesandro, the 1939 Pacific Coast league batting king who has failed to hit in the majors, and Lou Novikoff, the slugging Russian who has missed most of the Spring training program.

Nicholson is a tested gardener and a power hitter. He socked 29 home runs last year to top the National league and also finished the season with a .309 average.

Pafko, who may become one of the game's stars, pounded the ball for a .358 average with Los Angeles and then, in 13 games with the Cubs late last year, he hit for a mighty .379.

Pafko, a Boyceville, Wis., product, is a righthanded batter; Nicholson and Goodman are left-handed hitters.

Goodman, who was sold to Chicago in November, 1942, for the waiver price after eight years with the Reds, batted .320 for the Cubs in 80 games last year.

The Cubs thus would have a power-laden outfield with some heavy hitters ready to step in if the starters went into a slump. Sauer, most valuable player in the Southern Association last year, batted .368 for Nashville in 136 games and then hit for .273 for the Cubs in 14 contests.

Novikoff, the fence buster of the Pacific Coast league in 1939-'40 batted only .279 for the Cubs last year but he is a power hitter and was terrific in the minors.

Dalesandro, the sixth member of the outfield corps, batted only .222 in 87 games with the Chicago entry last season.

Goodman, Nicholson and Novikoff are I-A in the draft; Sauer is I-C and Pafko and Dalesandro are 4-F.

30,000 TO SEE WALLACE HURL SEASON'S FIRST

Baseball Season Opens With FDR Blessing And Doubtful Future

WASHINGTON, April 18—Baseball opens its third season of the second World War today with White House blessing, but no definite assurance that the game will carry on or even finish its 1944 schedule.

With 30,000 fans looking on, Vice-President Henry Wallace will toss out the first ball for the "official" opener in the nation's capital between the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics. Some importance of this game is removed by the fact that all clubs are opening today, but the color and ceremony remain.

President Roosevelt, who was unable to make the first pitch, has endorsed continuation of baseball in wartime and manpower chief Paul V. McNutt hopes the game can go on. However, there were no all-out predictions of optimism.

Postponement of inductions of men over 26 resulted in benefiting baseball but manpower experts pointed out that this order is only temporary and some draft boards have already started calling men in this category once more.

While some boards stopped calling all men over 26 the nationwide order applies to those in essential industry and baseball has never been considered essential.

Fair Crowds Expected
Baseball enters the 1944 campaign with the bright hope that the attendance figures will be more encouraging than those seen in last year's season-opener. The reason for this apparently well-founded hope is not because the quality of 1944 baseball is particularly inviting, but because last season's opening day attendance figures could not possibly be worse.

For the first three days of the season last year the campaign was maimed by rain. The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies were washed right out of their scheduled opener and did not swing into action until three days had elapsed. With a few exceptions, the crowds were nothing more than huddled knots of hardy fanatics made miserable by wretched weather.

There is every reason to hope today that the weather will be generally good and the crowds correspondingly larger. Weather predictions for the following cities, where opening games are to be played, were as follows:

Weather Forecast
Boston, fair and warmer; Chicago, warmer, but threat of rain; Detroit, fair, temperature around 50 degrees; Washington, overcast weather but no rain; St. Louis, cool, occasional showers; Philadelphia, fair and moderately cool; Cincinnati, light snow or rain was forecast; New York, partly cloudy, cool, fresh breezes.

The crowds, last year were a horror to box office men. In the American league, Chicago opened at St. Louis (4,421); Detroit at Cleveland, (13,847); Boston at Philadelphia, (4,553) and Washington at New York, (5,860). The Senators and A's played an early game before the rest of the teams, broke from the barrier, before a crowd of 25,093.

In the National League last year, New York got around to opening the local season for Boston (6,774); St. Louis opened at Cincinnati, (27,709); Pittsburgh at Chicago, (9,944); and New York, before the trip to Boston three days after official opening, played Brooklyn before 16,775.

Starting Pitchers
There are certain to be changes in probable pitchers before the teams swing into action, but at last reports they were as follows:

American League
New York (Borowy) at Boston (Terry).
Cleveland (Smith) at Chicago (Grove).
St. Louis (Sundra) at Detroit (Trout).
Philadelphia (Harris) at Washington (Wynn).

National League
Pittsburgh (Sewell) at St. Louis (M. Cooper).
Chicago (Hanzewski) at Cincinnati (Riddle).
Brooklyn (Gregg) at Philadelphia (Gerheuser).
Boston (Javery) at New York (Voiselle).

With the aid of good weather, the probable crowds shape up this way: Yanks-Red Sox, 13,000; Indians-White Sox, 18,000; Browns-Tigers, 20,000; Athletics-Senators, 20,000; Pirates-Cards, 12,000; Cubs-Reds, 29,000; Dodgers-Phillies, 12,000; Braves-Giants, 20,000. The figures are on the conservative side, but so is 1944 baseball.

POWER PACKED BREWERS LOOK BEST IN A. A.

COLUMBUS, April 18—The American Association opens its 43rd baseball season tomorrow with the power-packed Milwaukee Brewers favored to cop their second straight championship.

The opening day program promises to be altogether different than ever before with aging veterans, flocks of 4-F's and a handful of 17-year-olds in the line-ups in place of the circuit's better-known stars now off to the wars.

But the league's high and mighty aren't disturbed about the possibility of being unable to complete the season. For instance, League President George M. Trautman predicted the league would play out the string.

"The people want to see baseball," Trautman said, "and we're not worried about the crowds."

There will be oodles of new faces around the league this season and, for that matter, the line

York, Nicholson Seen As Hardest Hitters Of New Baseball Season

NEW YORK, April 18—By way of starting the 1944 baseball season today, we herewith award to Rudolph Preston York the major league home run championship in advance.

The only strings to this most generous gesture can be found in the form of a stipulation that he must not run into a prolonged absence from baseball because of injury or the draft. He is 1-A, but soon will be 31 years old.

The big Detroit Tiger will get his chief competition from Bill Nicholson of the Cubs, who figures to lead the National league again. Nicholson is 29 and not exactly out of that draft himself. He can hit the ball a mile and generally does it in spots most damaging to the opposition, as witness his 128 runs driven in last season for major league leadership in this department.

However, York belted out 34 home runs to top Charley Keller of the Yankees—now in the service—by three and to top Nicholson, the National league leader in this respect, by five. That gave York his first major league home run title, and his 118 runs batted in led his own American league.

Some of the players will tell you that the ball they have been hitting this Spring is livelier than any they have faced in recent years. But aside from that, if the ball is just normal and not fashioned with the innards of a cantaloupe, as it was when the rubber shortage first hit the game, the big sluggers will do better than all right. The pitching figures to be a little off.

That York and Nicholson will dominate the slugging parade is one of this department's most recently unearthed discoveries. The minors have sent up some pretty good talent, but until the newcomers have proved their worth up here on the big apple you have to string along with the old hands, who pop out their share of fence clearers even as in the days when all the best pitchers were around.

Since York became a regular at Detroit eight years ago he has never hit less than 20 homers in any season. Once he belted out 35, last year made it 34 and twice hit 33.

Neither has Nicholson ever hit under 20 during his four full seasons with the Cubs, but he has never gone as high as 30 either. His 29 last season was his top figure.

For the first time in many years the New York Yankees appear to be completely out of the home run derby dominated so long by Babe Ruth, then participated in by Lou Gehrig, Charley Keller and the rest. Their power hitters have gone. There is always the chance that some unknown will blossom overnight, but if Joe McCarthy has one about to bloom he has escaped attention.

Last year seemed surely to be Keller's year for the Yankees. He

There is every reason to hope today that the weather will be generally good and the crowds correspondingly larger. Weather predictions for the following cities, where opening games are to be played, were as follows:

Weather Forecast

Boston, fair and warmer; Chicago, warmer, but threat of rain; Detroit, fair, temperature around 50 degrees; Washington, overcast weather but no rain; St. Louis, cool, occasional showers; Philadelphia, fair and moderately cool; Cincinnati, light snow or rain was forecast; New York, partly cloudy, cool, fresh breezes.

The crowds, last year were a horror to box office men. In the American league, Chicago opened at St. Louis (4,421); Detroit at Cleveland (13,847); Boston at Philadelphia (14,553) and Washington at New York (5,860). The Senators and A's played an early game before the rest of the teams broke from the barrier, before a crowd of 25,093.

In the National League last year, New York got around to opening the local season for Boston (6,774); St. Louis opened at Cincinnati (27,709); Pittsburgh at Chicago (9,044); and New York, before the trip to Boston three days after official opening, played Brooklyn before 16,775.

Starting Pitchers

There are certain to be changes in probable pitchers before the teams swing into action, but at last reports they were as follows:

American League

New York (Borowy) at Boston (Terry).
 Cleveland (Smith) at Chicago (Grove).
 St. Louis (Sundra) at Detroit (Trout).
 Philadelphia (Harris) at Wash-

POWER PACKED BREWERS LOOK BEST IN A. A.

COLUMBUS, April 18—The American Association opens its 43rd baseball season tomorrow with the power-packed Milwaukee Brewers favored to cop their second straight championship.

The opening day program promises to be altogether different than ever before with aging veterans, flocks of 4-F's and a handful of 17-year-olds in the line-ups in place of the circuit's better-known stars now off to the wars.

But the league's high and mighty aren't disturbed about the possibility of being unable to complete the season. For instance, League President George M. Trautman predicted the league would play out the string.

"The people want to see baseball," Trautman said, "and we're not worried about the crowds."

There will be oodles of new faces around the league this season and, for that matter, the line-ups are likely to change once or twice during the campaign if draft regulations further tighten down.

Even in the managerial ranks there will be a bevy of new faces, a check of the league teams shows. Five of the eight clubs will open under new managers with only Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Columbus under the same pilots as last year.

JOHN SCHMIDT CAPTAINS OHIO STATE TRACKERS

COLUMBUS, April 18—Johnny Schmidt of Upper Arlington today was named captain of the Ohio State university track team, succeeding Dallas Dupre of Columbus, who is enrolled in midshipman's school at Ashbury Park, Md.

Schmidt, a senior at Ohio State and the Big Ten's indoor pole vault champion, was discharged from the Army last Summer. Track Coach George Haney said Schmidt will attempt to extend his vaulting dominance to the outdoor field in competition this season.

JOE McCARTHY UNABLE TO SHOW UP FOR OPENER

NEW YORK, April 18—Manager Joe McCarthy, bedded with the grippe, will not lead his New York Yankees against the Red Sox in Boston, and Manager Mel Ott will play right field for his New York Giants today knowing he probably will soon face the draft.

Both developments came about when the Yankee front office announced McCarthy's illness, and Ott said he would report to Lakewood, N. J., next Monday for his pre-induction physical exam.

K O. FOR LOU

OMAHA, Neb., April 18—Lou Nova, Van Nuys, Cal., heavyweight, had a six-round technical knockout to his credit today following his scheduled 10-round bout with Paul Hartnek, formerly of Omaha, Hartnek, who weighed in at 186 against Nova's 205, was pounded all over the ring by the Californian last night and the bout was stopped in the sixth when he went down under Nova's punches.

ington (Wynn).

National League

Pittsburgh (Sevell) at St. Louis (M. Cooper).
 Chicago (Hanyzewski) at Cincinnati (Riddle).
 Brooklyn (Gregg) at Philadelphia (Gerheuser).
 Boston (Javery) at New York (Voiselle).

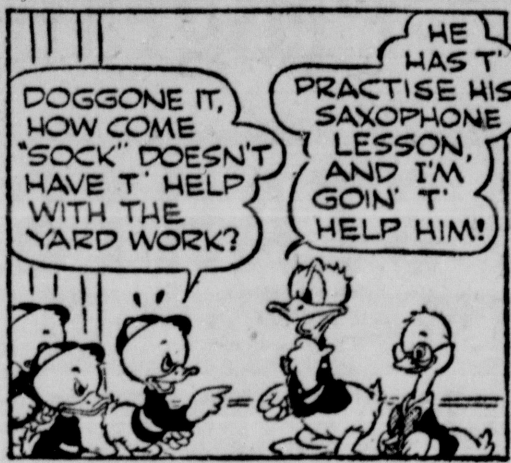

With the aid of good weather, the probable crowds shape up this way: Yankees-Red Sox, 13,000; Indians-White Sox, 18,000; Browns-Tigers, 20,000; Athletics-Senators, 20,000; Pirates-Cards, 12,000; Cubs-Reds, 29,000; Dodgers-Phillies, 12,000; Braves-Giants, 20,000. The figures are on the conservative side, but so is 1944 baseball.

KYSER TO TOUR

Kay Kyser is to leave for an eight weeks tour of the fighting fronts, starting in July. His program will continue on the air, with its personnel intact except for Kyser. Another "name" personality will substitute for the "Ol' Professor" in his absence. Auditions for the replacement are being held this week.

VISITS BIG TOWN

John Winchell, beloved "Old Timer" of the "Musical Steelmakers," is going to fulfill two ambitions in one day very soon. For months now, the "Old Timer" has told friends that the one man in radio he'd like to meet is Dunninger, the thought reader, who is also heard via the Blue. And, for a much longer time, Mr. Winchell has wanted to go to New York to meet several radio friends with whom he has been corresponding during his eight years with the "Steelmakers." Wednesday, April 19, the "Old Timer" will achieve both desires. He is coming up from Wheeling to talk to his big city friends in the afternoon and that night, he has been selected to act as one of the judges for Dunninger's broadcast from Radio City!

WIDE AGE SPAN

The cast of Isabel Manning Hewson's "Land of the Lost" covers as wide a span of ages as do the fans of the Blue network comedy-fantasy show. Youngest performer so far has been five and a half year old Lois Volkman, and the oldest has been Floyd Buckley, 73-year-old veteran of stock and vaudeville. The latter is conceded to be one of New York's most versatile character actors.

HAS ACROPHOBIA

Most unusual reason of the year was that which kept Roland Young from keeping his scheduled guest star date with Milton Berle on the "Let Yourself Go" program. It was acrophobia. When Young found he was expected to release his inhibitions from the top of a ladder, he apologetically withdrew, explaining that he gets the jitters badly on such a perch; he has an ingrained dread of high places!

TO BE COVER GIRL

Constance Moore, feminine lead of Joseph Cotton's Sunday broadcast, "America—Calling Unlimited," will soon be a "Cover Girl."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BET ON A CHANCE. TAKING risks is part of bridge, but doing it when you can avoid it, or when you can give yourself an extra chance instead of just one, is unsound. Suppose the trump suit holds the possibility of a loser, if you lose a finesse in it or fail to drop some outstanding honor. It is unwise to make your entire contract depend on that chance if you can get rid of a loser somewhere else in the hand, so that you can afford to lose the trump trick if necessary.

singleton Q, went to dummy again with the diamond A, and then finessed the spade J. West won with the Q, whereupon three fast tricks beat the contract—one in clubs, one in diamonds and one in hearts.

South could have improved his chances by trying for a diamond discard on a heart, instead of staking all on the trump play. After winning with the A, he could have led to the spade A, then gone to work on hearts. After East won and made the best return of a diamond to the A, his soundest play would have been the spade K, heart Q, heart J and then the heart 10, throwing his losing diamond on it. West could have scored his spade Q then, but that would have ended his side's trick taking.

What is South's best play for 6-Spades on this deal, after West leads a trump, and what is the best defense against it?

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Army Cadets at West Point have voted Rose May Robson, Conover model, as "the glamor girl with the most pleasing voice," after hearing her on a recent program. Rose May has received an invitation from them to spend a Sunday at West Point.

Unlike lightning, good music does strike twice in the same place. Some weeks ago Pianist Vera Brodsky sparked in an unusual arrangement of "Besame Mucho" on "The Lyn Murray Show." The fan mail has been so towering in appreciation that the nimble-fingered soloist will repeat the selection when she guest stars on the program, Friday night.

Did you know that there are two fellows in radio named Santos Ortega? One is the character actor on "Mr. District Attorney" and the other is a clarinetist with Fred Fradkin's orchestra. Not only are they not related...they don't even know each other.

In all probability the Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore programs, now heard Friday nights, will remain on the air for the Summer. Present plans call for the funsters to keep swapping gags throughout the warm weather, with the series emanating from Hollywood because the two principals have picture commitments.

The honor of being the first to sign the new guest register for "Stage Door Canteen" was given to Helen Hayes, America's first lady of the theatre. Miss Hayes affixed her signature in the book when she guest starred on the series last week. The first register was auctioned off at Madison Square Garden for $12,500 during the Fourth War Loan Drive.

Labor Supply for Farms Drops To New Low

DIFFICULT YEAR LOOMING FOR AGRICULTURE

WFA Report Shows Three Percent Worker Decline From April 1943

WAGES HIT NEW PEAK

Fresh Selective Service Demands Boost Worries Of Food Producers

WASHINGTON, April 18—The dwindling farm labor supply, confronted by fresh selective service demands for "combat men" under 26, was seen slipping further today in a War Food Administration report that there were three percent fewer persons working on farms April 1 than on the same date in 1943.

The WFA, in a quarterly report on the farm labor situation, revealed as of April 1 nine million 80 thousand were employed on farms in the face of boosted acreage plantings this year over last and renewed requests for increased food production.

Farm wages, meantime, have climbed to a new, all-time peak. All parts of the country indicated sharp increases in farm wage rates during that period with the largest gain recorded on the Pacific coast where the index jumped 57 points in the 12 months.

Fewer Workers

Hired farm employment dropped about 10 percent—from one million 87 thousand April 1, 1943, to one million 679 thousand April 1, 1944, it was announced.

Selective Service Chief Lewis B. Hershey has estimated there are 600,000 men under 26 with agricultural deferments of which 350,000 are physically fit for military service. He said the acute need for young combat soldiers should be measured carefully by draft boards in considering deferment for agricultural workers up to 26 years old under the Tydings amendment.

A WFA spokesman said the agency anticipates a "tougher year ahead" for agricultural labor.

DINGLE FOOT THINKS TURKEY WILL SHUN HUNS

LONDON, April 18—Minister of Economic Warfare Dingle M. Foot predicted today that the current Anglo-American representations to Turkey will cause that country to limit, and perhaps prohibit, its shipments of chrome to Germany.

In a brief statement to commons he declared that Turkey "will realize the need either to prohibit the exports entirely or limit them to the barest minimum" after the current discussions are ended.

Manpower Probe May Affect Draft Policy, Service Legislation

WASHINGTON, April 18—The senate Truman committee revealed today that it is making another investigation of the whole manpower problem which may affect draft policy and proposals for national service legislation.

The disclosure was made as Sen. Homer Ferguson (R) Mich., a committee member, declared a personal investigation has revealed widespread waste of money and men on cost-plus-fixed-fee war contracts.

Sen. Harry Truman (D) Mo., chairman of the committee, said the manpower problem is being conducted partly by the questionnaire method and that a report will soon be issued.

"We are winning the battle of production and I saw nothing on my trip to the west coast to change my mind in opposition to national service," said Truman.

Confusion Cited

"Conflicting draft and manpower orders are causing confusion and should be ended," Ferguson's inquiry took him from Mobile, Ala., to the Pacific coast and embraced the Detroit area. He included the inquiry into the cost-plus contracts with other Truman committee work.

"I am more convinced than ever that the cost-plus contract causes hoarding of labor and material, carelessness, extravagance and inefficiency," said Ferguson. He reported these discoveries:

1. Some contractors who got cost plus contracts were found inefficient, and hired other firms, at government expense, to run their business for them.
2. Cost-plus contractors—with the government paying the bill—"pirate" workers from other plants and avoid stabilization orders by up-grading them to increase pay.
3. Conflicting man-power and draft orders are causing damage to war production. Found key men on important ship repair jobs taken into services to fill jobs as chauffeurs.

"There are two shipyards, one on the gulf coast and one in California, where the cost-plus contractors couldn't do the job," said Ferguson. "In each case they hired other firms, at government expense, to supervise the work."

FOOD POISONING KNOCKS OUT 200 ARMY OFFICERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 18—More than 200 Army officers, back from battle zones, and a number of their wives were reported recovering today from food poisoning suffered after their luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

Lieut. Col. Edward Pallette, assistant surgeon at the hotel, which serves as headquarters for Redistribution Station No. 1, said that full recovery of all the officers was expected today inasmuch as there were "no serious aspects to the situation."

After the official announcement was issued, police reported that additional victims had telephoned from theatres, restaurants, private homes and cafes calling for aid.

Although no official mention of the cause was made, some of the stricken officers said they believed roast beef hash might have been the cause of the illness. Some of the officers' wives were described as "very sick."

JITTERBUGGING BRINGS $17,250 DAMAGE SUIT

HOLLYWOOD, April 18—A $17,250 damage suit was on file today against the Hollywood canteen as the result of the "wild gyrations" of a jitterbugging soldier.

Radio Actress Florida Edwards filed the suit, charging that while she was a hostess at the canteen last October 31 she danced with the soldier who "threw me out to his left and both my feet went up in the air."

She landed on her back and was knocked unconscious, receiving serious back injuries, the actress claimed.

BRICKER ASKS REPLACING OF KNOX, STIMSON

LOS ANGELES, April 18—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio today advocated the replacement of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of Navy Frank Knox to "help speed the end of the war" and bring it to "a victorious conclusion."

Declaring that the two cabinet posts should "be filled by men with acknowledged military and naval experience," the Ohio governor called for "fighting men" who can be an inspiration to the armed forces.

AIR OF GRIM WAITING HOVERS OVER ENGLAND

Government Moves To Prevent Leakage Of Invasion Tips

ENEMY SHOWS JITTERS

Axis Fishes Eagerly For Clue As To Day When Allies Will Strike

LONDON, April 18—An air of grim expectancy tightens today over Britain and, presumably, most of Western Europe as Allied diplomats entered their first day in history deprived of their customary immunity and Axis propagandists fished eagerly for a clue as to when the now "leakproof" invasion will come.

The British government's action in writing this, for the duration, to diplomatic immunity for Allied representatives except those of Russia, the United States and the dominions—which went into effect at midnight last night—was unprecedented in international law and brought a prompt display of jitters by enemy propaganda outlets.

German spokesmen warned their listeners that since Britain has moved openly to halt any possible leakage of information until after it is too late for the Reich to be benefited, invasion day is imminent. Neutral sources meanwhile pointed out that the announcement coincided with the present all-out aerial offensive against Nazi communication lines from bases in both Britain and Italy, and agreed that apparently the day for the showdown test of strength is near.

All Leaks Stopped

The influential Yorkshire Post, owned by the family of British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, declared that the drastic act constituted no reflection on the Allied diplomatic representatives, and pointed out "German agents might gain access to diplomatic bags in transit and pick up valuable hints."

And the diplomatic correspondent of the Times recalled that in 1939 all diplomatic missions in Britain were warned that some of their accepted privileges might be curtailed in the interests of national security.

"That warning now has been put into effect," the paper added.

Held In Britain

Under the terms of the ruling, foreign diplomats and their staffs cannot return home, send or receive telegrams in code or send their official pouches uncensored out of the country. The act came not long after telephone and telegraph communication with Elre was severed and difficulties were placed in the way of travel between England and any portions of the commonwealth choosing to remain neutral. Competent observers also declared it likely that picked units of the Royal Navy have been detailed to patrol Ireland's shores, both to halt any attempted Nazi surprise attack and to head off possible U-boat reconnaissance landings seeking to pick up valuable information.

The gag ruling sealed off Britain from the outside world and converted it into one gigantic armed camp. The regulations apply to ambassadors, ministers, counselors, other diplomats attached to embassies and legations, naval, military and air attaches and "similar officials." Authorities estimated that the gag would affect (Continued on Page Two)

PARIS RADIO FISHING

LONDON, April 18—The Paris radio, apparently engaging in a search for information on behalf of its Nazi operations, today quoted Lisbon reports as alleging that a meeting between Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt is imminent. The Paris outlet and several other enemy transmitters have made a number of similar allegations in the last few days.

ORRIN GESSLEY NOT AMONG FANS AT RED OPENER

He is at his home in East Franklin street recovering from pneumonia. He "attended" the 1944 opener by radio.

750,000 Men Needed For Army In '44

Stimson Again Declares Services Get Preference On Physically Fit

WASHINGTON, April 18—Secretary of War Stimson estimated today the Army will need a minimum of 750,000 men during the remainder of 1944 to maintain its peak strength and emphasized they must be young registrants physically fit for combat with the enemy.

"In solving our manpower problem, the first demand is that we obtain for physical contact with the enemy enough of the kind of men we need to do the job," Stimson said. "Final victory makes this demand on us, final victory depends on satisfying this demand above all others."

Stimson's remarks were contained in a special statement issued in answer to "implied criticism" of the Army in connection with drastic changes in selective service calling for tightened deferments of younger men and postponed inductions of men over 26 years of age.

The secretary declared the Army's estimates for manpower requirements have been "extraordinarily accurate" considering the difficulties involved, especially in view of the fact that it requires at least a month to give a correct figure on the number of soldiers in service.

Stimson said that in February the Army felt it would reach its required strength of seven million 700 thousand men not earlier than April 1 and probably not until May (Continued on Page Two)

Speed Promised

All indications were that the committee itself, responding to the public clamor for relief from complicated tax forms, would maintain its "speed" schedule until the measure is reported. Some house leaders have pointed out that inasmuch as the revisions are not effective until January 1945 there is little need for speed now. Any delay after the bill leaves Doughton's committee, ways and means members emphasize, will be someone else's responsibility.

One new change which may be proposed in committee, it was learned, involves extending the quarterly tax payment dates 30 days, or to the fifteenth of the month following expiration of the quarter involved. At present tax payments and declarations are made on March 15, June 15, September 15, etc.

Rep. Carlson (R) Kan., a member of the committee, pointed out that such a shift would give those taxpayers who still will make declarations and payments under the simplified law 15 days after the quarterly period has ended in which to make computations.

PERFECTION OF WOOD HARDENER TO WIDEN USE

NEW YORK, April 18—E. I. Dupont de Nemours and Co. disclosed today development of a method of "transmuting" various types of woods to give them increased "compressive strength," thus opening a wide range of new war and post-war uses for ordinary woods.

Dr. J. F. T. Berliner of the Dupont ammonia department described at a news conference how poplar can be made harder than hard maple and how in a few days hard maple can be made harder than ebony—which takes nature a century to grow.

As a result, he said, drawers, windows and doors that will not stick or jam are now possible and treated woods even can substitute for steel in certain types of machinery parts.

NO SANTA CLAUS

COLUMBUS, April 18—Reversing a decision he made only yesterday, Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel today notified a New York trust company that the name "Santa Claus, Inc." was not available for incorporation in Ohio. Hummel said incorporation of the name would be likely to mislead the public as to the nature of the business to be transacted.

ADMIRAL TURNS CRITICISM ON SCHOOLS OF U. S.

LOS ANGELES, April 18—Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the bureau of personnel, U. S. Navy, criticized today the sort of education America's youth is getting nowadays.

"Failure adequately to teach American youth the three 'R's,' reading and writing and arithmetic in the public schools, made me very skeptical of their ability to win a war," he declared.

"Men with college degrees came seeking commissions and many could neither properly read nor write and had no higher mathematics than simple arithmetic."

Admiral Jacobs had high praise for the Naval V-12 program whereby college men get their training under Navy auspices.

He said he expected naval personnel to reach a new high of three million men during 1944.

SIMPLIFIED TAX BILL SCANNED BY HOUSE BOARD

Measure Expected To Be Introduced For Vote In Two Weeks

RELIEF PLEAS HEHEED

Speed Schedule To Be Maintained Due To Public Clamor

WASHINGTON, April 18—The simplified bill to free 30 million taxpayers from filing income tax returns comes before the house ways and means committee today with a prediction that it will reach the house floor "within two weeks."

Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., ranking minority member of the committee said he saw no reason why the legislation, turned over to the drafting experts just 31 days ago, should not be ready for house action by May 1.

Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., committee chairman, called today's meeting to begin consideration of the bill which sets forth in legislative terms the simplification goals agreed on and announced by the committee on March 17.

CLUE FOUND ON HEADLESS PAIR

Ozark Fiend's Victims May Be Missouri Woman And Daughter

CAMDENTON, Mo., April 18—The first clue to the possible identity of the bodies of two headless women found in the lake of the Ozarks came today in a report from North Kansas City, Mo.

Allen Engleman told authorities there, according to a report received in Camdenton, that his wife and daughter left for Camdenton for the week end and that he had been unable to get in touch with them.

The man said the description of the two mutilated victims fitted closely those of his wife and daughter.

Meanwhile, highway patrolmen and possemen scoured the area surrounding the bleak shores of the lake in a search for a maniacal slayer.

Col. Stanley Gwinn, superintendent of the state highway patrol, described the killer as a "crazed fiend" and ordered his entire staff of 125 men into the search.

Coroner Abbie Woolery of Camdenton county said one body was that of a woman perhaps 25 years old. The head was severed at the neck and the body was riddled with shotgun pellets. The body was nude except for a slip and a stocking.

The coroner said a second stocking, weighted with stone, was found a few yards away and a (Continued on Page Two)

SOLDIER'S WIFE FAITHFUL, SAYS LIE DETECTOR

CHICAGO, April 18—All was happiness and implicit trust again today in the home of Pvt. Joseph Villa. The soldier, believing his wife, Margaret, was unfaithful to him, had sued her for divorce.

Then, possibly for the first time in a case of this kind, the wife underwent a lie detector test. Dr. Orlando Scott, who conducted the test, declared it established that Pvt. Villa is the father of her two children.

Overjoyed, Pvt. Villa asked Superior Court Judge John J. Lupe to dismiss his divorce suit, embrace his wife and left the court room with her.

BABY CAN TAKE IT, BUT NINE WOMEN FAINT

NEW YORK, April 18—Amy Ullman, 11 months old, can take it—perhaps with a few tears and wails—but anyway, she can stand the gaff. She proved her fortitude while nine much older members of her sex fainted.

It was like this: A Brooklyn street car was rattling along. It frightened a horse hauling a junk wagon. The horse ran away, mounted a sidewalk and smashed into the carriage in which baby Army was sleeping peacefully. The mother ran out of a store, saw the crushed carriage under the horse's knees, then fainted.

In succession eight other women nearby fainted. Police wriggled the carriage from under the fallen horse. A doctor quickly examined the infant.

"Not a scratch," he said.

DIES FOR AUTO

CLEVELAND, April 18—An Akron man was dead today because of his desperate efforts to save his stalled auto from the path of an onrushing Nickel Plate train in Cleveland. The victim was Thomas Thomas, 48, who struggled free of bystanders and refused to heed the pleadings of women in the crowd.

'Over Tokyo Soon'

BAD news for the Japs was included in a farewell address made by Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale (above) to members of the Seventh Air Force after he was named commander of land-based air forces at forward areas in the Central Pacific. Commenting on the declining Jap air strength, he told the fliers that "it won't be long before you are over Tokyo."

CLUE FOUND ON HEADLESS PAIR

Ozark Fiend's Victims May Be Missouri Woman And Daughter

CAMDENTON, Mo., April 18—The first clue to the possible identity of the bodies of two headless women found in the lake of the Ozarks came today in a report from North Kansas City, Mo.

Allen Engleman told authorities there, according to a report received in Camdenton, that his wife and daughter left for Camdenton for the week end and that he had been unable to get in touch with them.

The man said the description of the two mutilated victims fitted closely those of his wife and daughter.

Meanwhile, highway patrolmen and possemen scoured the area surrounding the bleak shores of the lake in a search for a maniacal slayer.

Col. Stanley Gwinn, superintendent of the state highway patrol, described the killer as a "crazed fiend" and ordered his entire staff of 125 men into the search.

Coroner Abbie Woolery of Camdenton county said one body was that of a woman perhaps 25 years old. The head was severed at the neck and the body was riddled with shotgun pellets. The body was nude except for a slip and a stocking.

The coroner said a second stocking, weighted with stone, was found a few yards away and a (Continued on Page Two)

SOLDIER'S WIFE FAITHFUL, SAYS LIE DETECTOR

CHICAGO, April 18—All was happiness and implicit trust again today in the home of Pvt. Joseph Villa. The soldier, believing his wife, Margaret, was unfaithful to him, had sued her for divorce.

Then, possibly for the first time in a case of this kind, the wife underwent a lie detector test. Dr. Orlando Scott, who conducted the test, declared it established that Pvt. Villa is the father of her two children.

Overjoyed, Pvt. Villa asked Superior Court Judge John J. Lupe to dismiss his divorce suit, embrace his wife and left the court room with her.

BABY CAN TAKE IT, BUT NINE WOMEN FAINT

NEW YORK, April 18—Amy Ullman, 11 months old, can take it—perhaps with a few tears and wails—but anyway, she can stand the gaff. She proved her fortitude while nine much older members of her sex fainted.

It was like this: A Brooklyn street car was rattling along. It frightened a horse hauling a junk wagon. The horse ran away, mounted a sidewalk and smashed into the carriage in which baby Army was sleeping peacefully. The mother ran out of a store, saw the crushed carriage under the horse's knees, then fainted.

In succession eight other women nearby fainted. Police wriggled the carriage from under the fallen horse. A doctor quickly examined the infant.

"Not a scratch," he said.

WASHINGTON, April 18—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that American forces eventually will invade and seize some of the Japanese positions in the Kurile Islands, north-east of Tokyo.

"No one knows when that will happen, not even I," Knox told reporters.

LONDON, April 18—American bomber formations were reported by the German agency DNB to be in operation today in the neighborhood of Berlin.

By International News Service

Fierce street fighting was in prospect for the oft-besieged city of Sevastopol today, with German and Romanian troops frantically constructing barricades to be used in a desperate last-ditch stand against Russian troops closing on the historic naval base.

Two Soviet armies, advancing under cover of a powerful artillery and aerial barrage, were within four miles above the city and only a scant five miles of Balaklava, famed in the costly "charge of the Light Brigade" of the Crimean war in 1854.

In their drive on Balaklava, the Russians ran roughshod over badly-mauled enemy troops, while farther to the north and northwest the Red Army encountered stiffening Nazi resistance. Nevertheless, the Soviet mobile columns moved forward to inflict "heavy" losses on the Germans and Romanians, and captured at least one important height.

Dneestr Crossed

While the Crimean offensive progressed favorably for the Red Army, other Russian forces poured across the Dneestr river "in strength," according to frontline dispatches. The forward correspondents failed to identify the specific localities at which the Soviet legions swarmed across the swollen stream, but it was recalled that spearheads already were deep into Northern Romania and far into Bessarabia. ## YANK BOMBERS BLAST JAPANESE AT HOLLANDIA

Nine Enemy Ships Sunk Or Damaged, Facilities On Ground Gutted

OPPOSITION IS WEAK

MacArthur Hints Raid One Of Heaviest Visited On Coastal City

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HQ., New Guinea, April 18.—Large formations of American fighter-escorted bombers were revealed today to have blasted again the big Japanese air base at Hollandia, New Guinea.

The attack paced a fresh series of widespread assaults in which nine enemy ships were sunk or damaged and ground facilities were gutted.

Only weak opposition was offered by the Japanese anti-aircraft gunners defending Hollandia, whose skies once were filled with flak and interceptors at the approach of any hostile formations. Although full details of the assault, carried out at noon Saturday, still are lacking, Gen. Douglas MacArthur hinted that it was one of the heaviest saturation raids yet visited upon that coastal village.

Big Raid Formation

Large numbers of heavy and medium bombers swept in behind a dense screen of fighter planes to rock Hollandia badly. Many buildings were demolished, shipping facilities were damaged and huge fires were started in fuel and supply storage areas.

Preliminary reports showed that airdrome facilities were hit heavily, at least one small vessel in the harbor left blazing, jetties fired and one shore battery ruined.

North of Hollandia, the planes roared over enemy-held Wake Island where they bombed an airdrome, supply dumps and barracks areas, igniting fires and touching off a series of resounding blasts.

Meanwhile, Australian and Dutch airmen in Beaufort and Mitchell loosed 23 tons of bombs on Koe-pang at the southern tip of Timor. The raiders remained over the target for nearly an hour, hitting warehouses and buildings near the beach and again causing conflagrations and explosions. One white-hot blaze could be seen 60 miles away.

Aussies Hit Roti

To the south, Aussie Beaufighters tore into Roti island just after dawn, destroyed three Japanese coastal vessels and damaged two others. General MacArthur's communiqué added that throughout the Southwest Pacific theatre, six small enemy vessels were sunk and three others damaged.

Rahaul, the weakened New Britain base which the enemy apparently plans to use as the center of a last-ditch defense on that island, was hit with 54 tons of explosive and fire packets in the newest of its daily attacks. Medium and light bombers from the Solomon Islands carried out the raid, concentrating on airdrome and supply installations.

In addition, spokesmen disclosed that South Pacific patrol bombers have struck on successive nights at Dubien island in the Truk lagoon, setting fires and causing explosions among important facilities.

SOLDIER GAINS DIVORCE

James E. Smith, a member of the Armed Forces, was granted a divorce from Mildred Smith in Common Pleas court Monday. He also gained custody of three minor children who were placed in the custody of his sister, Mrs. Rosetta Whaley, Deer Creek township.

tion of Chisinau (Kishinev) the Red Army tanks literally ground over beaten enemy troops.

The Red Army already had cleared the enemy from his last foothold across the river, by wiping out a Nazi bridgehead on the eastern bank of the Dneestr estuary southwest of captured Odessa. At this time of year, the river was at least three times its normal width due to floods precipitated by the Spring thaws in the Carpathian mountain passes.

Germans Worried
While the Russian campaign caused the Nazi high command much dismay, the Germans found nothing consoling in news from the diplomatic front. The British action in depriving Allied and neutral envoys of their immunity and certain time-honored privileges was interpreted by the enemy to indicate that the long-promised invasion of western Europe was imminent.

The German people were warned repeatedly by their leaders that the all-out Anglo-American blow would not now be long in coming; neutral circles tied up the unprecedented action of Britain with the current two-way Allied aerial offensive against Nazi communications.

A Berlin spokesman said "many signs" indicate the invasion "can not be far away" and added that the Allies "might... win the first round."

Air Forces Active
The Allied air invasion of Europe appeared under way by daylight again, Nazi home radios warning of the approach of Allied warplanes while two transmitters in occupied France lapsed into sudden silence.

During the night, British Mosquito bombers stabbed at the industrial city of Cologne, and other RAF planes sowed mines in enemy waters.

An official communiqué from Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's headquarters credited American Fortress and Liberator crew members with destroying at least 25 enemy interceptors which sought to stop them from blasting the Balkan capitals of Sofia and Belgrade.

"Considerable damage" was inflicted by yesterday's U. S. raiders when they hit railway installations in both cities, as well as two key aircraft factories in the Yugoslavian capital.

Wilson's ground troops repulsed small enemy attacks on both the Anzio beachhead and main Fifth Army fronts, as well as on the sector held by the British Eighth Army. On the beachhead, the Allies advanced under cover of a strong artillery barrage and seized an advanced stronghold which the Nazis had taken several days ago.

Nine Japs Sunk
In the Southwest Pacific, nine Jap ships were sunk during the fresh series of U. S. air raids in which the main target was Hollandia, New Guinea.

A heavy new attack by four-motored bombers of the 10th U. S. Army Air Force on the Japanese-held Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal was announced by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Yesterday, his communiqué said, long-range American fighter planes attacked He-Ho airfield in Burma, destroying seven enemy aircraft in the air and two on the ground.

No new developments of importance were reported immediately from the Imphal area of India, just across the Burma border, where Japanese penetrative thrusts are believed to have been halted. A front-line report from Northern Burma said that Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's "Marauders" operating in the hills east of Mogaung have killed 2,000 Japanese to date. Chinese forces under Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell penetrated to Warazup against stiff enemy resistance.

SIMPLIFIED TAX BILL SCANNED BY HOUSE BOARD

Measure Expected To Be Introduced For Vote In Two Weeks

plan to be contained in the new bill will:

1. Permit persons earning up to $5,000 and receiving not more than $100 from sources not subject to withholding to file only a copy of their tax withholding receipt. This will affect an estimated 30 million taxpayers.
2. Enable ten million others to use a simple table which will show their entire tax; the remaining 10 million taxpayers will report in more detail but in "simpler form" than at present.
3. Abolish the Victory tax and merge the present normal and surtax levies into a single surtax.
4. Change personal exemptions to $500 for a single person, $1,000 for married couples and $500 for each dependent.
5. Give taxpayers with incomes up to $5,000 a flat deduction allowance of 10 percent of income. Above $5,000 the standard deduction allowance will be $500. Deductions above the standard allowance may be credited, however, merely by listing them.

DEFERMENTS REQUESTED BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Names of two more registrants of the local board of selective service have been forwarded to the State headquarters of Selective Service for deferment consideration. They are Richard W. Both cases will be forwarded by the state headquarters to the Boards of Appeal having jurisdiction over the territory in which the registrants are employed.

AIR OF GRIM WAITING HOVERS OVER ENGLAND

Government Moves To Prevent Leakage Of Invasion Tips

mated that representatives of 43 nations were affected by the ban.

The official announcement declared that the step was taken "in the unprecedented circumstances created by the military operations impending in the present year" and promised that "these restrictions will of course, be removed at the earliest possible moment."

Tension High

It brought a new air of tension to all Britain; an air which was reflected openly in enemy "fishing" expeditions. In propaganda broadcasts, enemy spokesmen declared that the Allied invasion now "will not be long delayed," but added that no climactic events are expected in the "next few days."

Danish reports reaching London by way of Sweden said that the Germans have rushed to completion the sowing of a three-mile-wide belt of mines off the west coast of Jutland from Lister Dørb to Hanstholm as a defense measure.

From Zurich, according to Reuters News Agency, came a statement from well-informed sources that "intensification of the Allied air offensive on communications in Germany and German-occupied territory is regarded as a sign that invasion is imminent." These sources said that the current series of attacks on rail lines "would be comparatively valueless unless followed up immediately by land operations," for otherwise the damage caused could be repaired quickly by the Germans.

Preliminaries Start

(A correspondent in London reported that "southeast Europe, particularly Romania, is worth watching very closely for the next few weeks" and added: from what we can see in London the preparatory military and political battles for the western invasion are being fought there right now.")

Another correspondent, also in London, said that prior to the ban "the Spanish embassy here, for instance, has been sending regular couriers by plane to Lisbon. Any information on military preparations picked up in Britain by the Spaniards could be transmitted to the Germans within a few hours. Even less pro-Nazi travelers than Franco's men might carry reports that would be valuable to the Germans... such gigantic military preparations are being made on the island of Britain that many people undoubtedly will be aware of the approach of the zero hour in spite of secrecy, forbidden areas and the like. This fact has made necessary the temporary diplomatic isolation of the entire country.")

ONLY 14 MEN IN SERVICE ASK FOR BALLOTS

Despite the fight that is being waged over the right to vote by members of the Armed Forces only 14 Pickaway county men have made applications for absent voters blanks, with the local board of elections. Included in the total are two requests from men on overseas duty.

With the application to the service men the board is also sending the ballot, both forms to be returned at the same time.

The period for obtaining the blanks opened Monday April 10 and will close May 4. All ballots must be in the hands of the clerk of the board of elections by noon May 5, although there is a possibility of an extension of time for the return of ballots from service men.

dress and apron, apparently belonging to the victim, was floating nearby.

The body was found yesterday about 200 yards from the water's edge, about 200 feet from where the first headless victim was found floating in the water Sunday afternoon.

The second discovery was made as state patrolmen and sheriff's deputies sought clues in the first case.

The body of the first victim, similarly decapitated, was that of a woman of about 50, who was short and stout. Her left leg also was severed.

Sheriff Jack Stotter said the heads of both victims apparently had been severed with a fishing hatchet or similar instrument.

Coroner Woolery said body of the second victim had been in the water perhaps 24 hours when discovered and that the bodies of both apparently had been placed in the water about the same time.

He pointed out, however, a "better organized" WFA farm labor program probably will take up some slack during the planting and harvesting periods. City workers who last year helped out in harvesting will be more experienced this year and therefore more productive, he said.

WFA's report further disclosed that the index of supply of farm workers available April 1 this year was 54 percent of the 1935-39 average—"slightly smaller" than the percentage announced on the same date last year.

Migratory workers, war prisoners, foreign importees—such as Mexicans, Bahamians and Jamaicans—townspeople, furloughed soldiers, Japanese evacuees and other persons doing two days of farm work a week are included in the employment estimates, WFA said.

Monday club in a guest-night session in the club room, Memorial hall, Monday evening, enjoyed a delightful program of Russian music presented by the Music Division of the organization. Mrs. Reicheidortler in a splendid paper, dealt with Rachmaninoff's heritage of the richness of the great Tsarist cultural period.

Mrs. Clark Will spoke briefly concerning the Youth Canteen, which the Monday club has been instrumental in promoting. Two club members are on the board. During the business hour in charge of Miss Margaret Rooney, president, the club voted a gift of $5 to the Canteen.

The meeting opened with the collect for club women, the secretary's report and report of the committee for the coming social season. The club's one social evening of the year will be enjoyed Monday, April 24, in the social room of the Presbyterian church. Members are requested to give reservations for the evening to Miss Sadie Brunner or Mrs. A. L. Wilder by Saturday, April 22. The session will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Reicheidortler in her review of the book on Rachmaninoff by Reisman discussed the qualities of greatness inherited from his parents and the brilliance of his teachers and instructors. She spoke of his leaving Russia because he saw that Bolshevism and anarchy were ruining all that was fine in Russian culture.

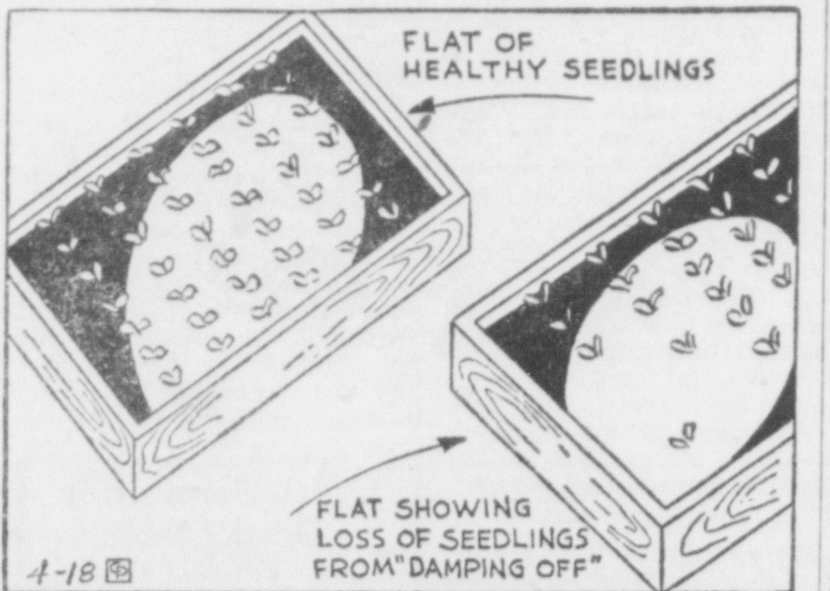

Rachmaninoff came to America in 1918 and Mrs. Reicheidortler spoke of his contributions to American music as "immense." She said that he was never quite certain to which phase of music he should have devoted his life, so he was at once composer, pianist and conductor.

Music of Rachmaninoff was presented by the Music division with the club chorus using "The Island" as its first number. Mrs. Will sang "Lilacs" and the club trio, Mrs. Will, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh and Mrs. James P. Moffitt, chose "Through the Silent Night" as its selection.

Mrs. Martin Cromley played Rachmaninoff's "Humoresque," Opus 19, No. 5. Immediately after the discussion of his life and music by Mrs. Reicheidortler, Mrs. Defenbaugh chose for her two solos, "Field Beloved" and "Deep in Love Was I."

Rounding out the fine choice of selections by this gifted man, "Waltz" and "Tarentelle," from the 2nd suite for two pianos, were played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke and Mrs. Theodore L. Huston.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Guard Victory Seedlings Against
"Damping Off"

By DEAN HALIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

EVERY VICTORY gardener who raises his own seedlings must be constantly alert for signs of "damping off" among his precious plants. "Damping off" is a disease of seedling plants which is fostered by excessive moisture in the flats in which seedlings are grown, by overcrowding of plants, lack of air circulation, high humidity and lack of sunshine. The disease can be prevented, but there is nothing which can be done to save plants actually afflicted with it.

The illustration on the left of the accompanying Garden-Graph shows a flat of healthy seedlings which have escaped "damping off" because soil, seeds and the container itself were sterilized to prevent the disease from developing. The illustration on the right of the Garden-Graph shows a flat with broken rows of seedlings, the plantlets areas showing the extent of loss due to "damping off."

To check the spread of "damping off" to the entire flat of seedlings in which the disease has made its appearance, the afflicted plants must immediately be dug out, and the soil surrounding them removed. Following removal of diseased plants and infected soil, the entire flat should be top-dressed with a thin layer of sand or powdered sulphur.

Seibel-French Wedding

Grace Graham Walker Home Management House on the Ohio State university campus, Columbus, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Martha French, daughter of Mrs. Charles French of Washington C. H., formerly of New Holland, and John J. Seibel, apprentice seaman, son of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. John J. Seibel, Panama.

Vows were exchanged in an impressive double-ring ceremony conducted by candlelight before an improvised altar, near the fireplace in the living room. The Rev. V. C. Stump, pastor of the New Holland Methodist church, read the service at 7:30 p. m.

The bride is a senior at the university, majoring in home economics as a dietitian. Miss Betty Lindsey, pianist, and Miss Janice Duwell, vocalist, music students at the university, presented a program of nuptial music preceding the wedding service.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Marjorie Lindsey of Mt. Sterling, a cousin of the bridegroom. Darrell French, brother of the bride, was best man for the bridegroom. Mrs. French wore for her daughter's marriage a dark blue crepe frock with blue and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white iris.

An informal reception for 35 guests was held in the dining room of the home.

After a short trip, Seaman Seibel will return to the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., where he has been in training since February. His home is in Panama where his father is stationed with the U. S. Army. He attended Iowa State College before leaving this country for Panama and returned here for induction in November, 1943.

The bride will resume her studies at the university when Seaman Seibel returns to his station.

Warner of Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Warner of Pleasantville, and Lawrence Ward, son of Mrs. Dora Ward of Ashville, were married April 9 in the parsonage of the Lutheran church at St. Paul, near Ashville. The Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff, pastor of the church read the service at 3 p. m.

Miss Dorothy Fay Cook, Ashville, was the bride's only attendant. Private First Class Rodney E. Ward, Fort Dix, N. J., was best man for his brother.

The bride wore a frock of peach taffeta with a corsage of Talisman roses for her marriage. Miss Cook chose aqua for the wedding and her corsage was fashioned of Spring flowers.

The new Mrs. Ward will remain in Lancaster for the present.

The first J. C. Penney store in Kemmerer, Wyo., was called the "Golden Rule," a name which aptly describes the Penney way of doing business

YOUR GOOD NEIGHBOR

For 42 Years

WHAT we like best to hear people say of us is "Penney's is a neighborly store." And that's what we do hear... often!

For at Penney's we have never outgrown the simple, friendly way of doing business that makes people feel welcome and at home.

We've never outgrown it—in all our 42 years. Back in April 1902, Mr. Penney opened his first store in Kemmerer, Wyoming—a store devoted to friendly service and thrifty prices. And the spirit of that first store has spread to every one of our stores, in over 1600 American communities.

The people who work here at Penney's are neighbors of yours and they try to act as good neighbors should. They sympathize with your likes and dislikes. They belong to this town!

And so does the store where they work! That's why shopping here is so easy, so pleasant!

In time of peace, each passing Penney anniversary was a time for celebration and ceremony.

But this year, upon our 42nd Anniversary, we celebrate simply with a reaffirmation of the Penney spirit—a determination to remain as homelike and neighborly as our many friends expect us to be.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, April 18

THIS DAY may be notable for a fruitful and happy culmination to work well done, with substantial rewards and approbation from those in influence or authority. This should be a concrete objective, as diligence and fidelity to the interests and responsibilities of others should be solidly lucrative, with many benefits for a future of security. Real possessions of all kinds could be safely and wisely accumulated, although not with a lavish or extravagant show or display. Make changes and travel with foresight and thrift.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BET ON A CHANCE

TAKING risks is part of bridge, but doing it when you can avoid it, or when you can give yourself an extra chance instead of just one, is unsound. Suppose the trump suit holds the possibility of a loser, if you lose a finesse in it or fail to drop some outstanding honor. It is unwise to make your entire contract depend on that chance if you can get rid of a loser somewhere else in the hand, so that you can afford to lose the trump trick if necessary.

singleton Q, went to dummy again with the diamond A and then finessed the spade J. West won with the Q, whereupon three fast tricks beat the contract—one in clubs, one in diamonds and one in hearts.

South could have improved his chances by trying for a diamond discard on a heart, instead of staking all on the trump play. After winning with the A, he could have led to the spade A, then gone to work on hearts. After East won and made the best return of a diamond to the A, his soundest play would have been the spade K, heart Q, heart J and then the heart 10, throwing his losing diamond on it. West could have scored his spade Q then, but that would have ended his side's trick taking.

VISITS BIG TOWN

John Winchell, beloved "Old Timer" of the "Musical Steelmakers," is going to fulfill two ambitions in one day very soon. For months now, the "Old Timer" has told friends that the one man in radio he'd like to meet is Dunninger, the thought reader, who is also heard via the Blue. And, for a much longer time, Mr. Winchell has wanted to go to New York to meet several radio friends with whom he has been corresponding during his eight years with the "Steelmakers." Wednesday, April 19, the "Old Timer" will achieve both desires. He is coming up from Wheeling to talk to his big city friends in the afternoon and, that night, he has been selected to act as one of the judges for Dunninger's broadcast from Radio City!

WIDE AGE SPAN

The cast of Isabel Manning Hewson's "Land of the Lost" covers as wide a span of ages as do the fans of the Blue network comedy-fantasy show. Youngest performer so far has been five and a half year old Lois Volkman, clever little singing actress, and the oldest has been Floyd Buckley, 73-year-old veteran of stock and vaudeville. The latter is conceded to be one of New York's most versatile character actors.

HAS ACROPHOBIA

Most unusual reason of the year was that which kept Roland Young from keeping his scheduled guest star date with Milton Berle on the "Let Yourself Go" program. It was acrophobia. When Young found he was expected to release his inhibitions from the top of a ladder, he apologetically withdrew, explaining that he gets the jitters badly on such a perch; he has an ingrained dread of high places!

TO BE COVER GIRL

Constance Moore, feminine lead of Joseph Cotton's Sunday broadcast, "America—Ceiling Unlimited," will soon be a "Cover Girl."

Tomorrow's Problem

What is South's best play for 6-Spades on this deal, after West leads a trump, and what is the best defense against it?

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Circleville VFW Donates $860 To Rehabilitation Program

POST DECIDES AGAINST DRIVE TO RAISE QUOTA

Unanimous Approval Voted For Largest Organization Gift In Local History

PLAN TO HELP SOLDIERS

National Veterans Go Public For Cash First Time In 45 Years

Circleville's post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has contributed its full quota to the national VFW program of rehabilitation of returning veterans who have been discharged from the armed services since Pearl Harbor. A check for $860 has been forwarded to national headquarters.

While most VFW posts are conducting or will conduct campaigns to raise their quotas, the local post decided against this procedure and took the money out of its treasury. This is said to be the largest single donation ever made here by an organization.

Decision to make the gift was reached at a post meeting, members of the organization being unanimous in their opinion that since the post had the money it should meet the quota. This decision was made despite the fact that the rehabilitation project is one of general public welfare and affects all returning service men whether or not they are members of the VFW.

Raising Big Fund

The national VFW is conducting a campaign to raise $1,500,000 to maintain a nation-wide rehabilitation program. Commander in Chief Carl J. Schoeninger, of Detroit, revealed that men are now being sent home at the rate of 35,000 a month. He declared that it is a patriotic duty of the organization to aid these men in every way possible. "We know the facts about hospitalization, pensions, compensation, dependants' benefits, vocational training and veteran preference right to employment and we expect to provide this information to all the returning men. This national fund is being raised so that the VFW can extend a helping hand to the men who have served under the flag."

First Cash Appeal

This is the first time in 45 years that the VFW nationally has gone to the public for funds. Because of the worthiness of the cause no difficulty is anticipated in raising the national total. "No one organization, no one branch of government can possibly do all that will be needed to assist the returning veterans in readjustment to civilian life", officers of the local post declared. "We appreciate this fact and know that hundreds of county residents would have been glad to donate to the cause, but we feel that since we have the money the post should give it and not bother the general public."

Officers Installed

At the meeting at which the donation decision was reached new officers of the post were installed. They are: James V. Pierce, commander; Francis C. Kennedy, senior vice commander; Herschel Beckett, Jr., vice commander; James H. Fouch, quartermaster; William Miller, adjutant; Alton Cain, chaplain; R. G. Grose, three year trustee; Arley Clary, two year trustee; Ralph Schumm, one year trustee. Ed Keys remains as business manager of the VFW club. The officers were installed by Past Commander Grose.

The VFW Auxiliary met at the same time as the post and installed officers, the installation being under Mrs. R. G. Grose, who was the first president of the organization.

Following the meeting lunch was served to the assembly.

show any real animus on the part of Ambassadors toward persons of the Jewish race."

Refusing the Congressman's request to examine the investigation file, Stimson wrote that, since Lieutenant Amb's statements were not official, "they have no official validity insofar as the War Department is concerned."

BANTAM BILBO

Don't hold your breath waiting for the Senate to crack down on boisterous little Senator Theodore ("The Man") Bilbo for his "white supremacy" speech to the Mississippi Legislature. Senators are noted for sticking together when a colleague is under fire and it would be a rare departure from form if they took any action against Bilbo.

The Mississippian was well aware of this when he returned to Washington after telling the Legislature that the "alleys would outvote the avenues" if the District of Columbia was given suffrage. Cocky as ever, despite the editorial brickbats he received from various newspapers, the bantam-sized Senator uncorked some purple epithets regarding a mass meeting of citizens who are demanding his ouster from the Senate's District of Columbia Committee.

Asked if he had been invited to the meeting, Bilbo screamed, "Hell, no! They're discriminating against me."

Discrimination has been the Senator's stock in trade for years.

NOTE—Bilbo drove to Mississippi in his luxurious Cadillac—a 2,000-mile round trip. Asked where he was going to get enough gasoline for this junkie in war time, he shrugged: "Oh, I've got a C card."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

At least one Republican politician is squarely on record for the poll tax. He's Dr. Jesse Randolph Kellems, brother of industrialist Vivien, running for the California Congressional seat to be vacated by Will Rogers, Jr. "I think a poll tax is a good thing," Kellems has said publicly. "I wish I had it in my district." . . . Few people realize it, but the fabulously wealthy territory of Alaska cost us not $7,200,000, but only $1,400,000. The other $5,800,000 was paid to Russia for "lending" us her fleet. The Union feared that Great Britain was about to recognize the Confederacy in 1864, a disaster which Lincoln was anxious to avert. Therefore, Secretary of State William Seward arranged with the Czar to have the Russian fleet—then second largest in the world—winter in New York Harbor, agreeing to pay all costs of the expedition. The presence of the Russian fleet had the desired effect on Britain. Rather than admit the deal, the Government lumped the costs of the Russian naval expedition with the payment to the Czar for the Alaska territory.

WHAT I WANT MOST IS A KITCHEN!

Perhaps you heard the turret-gunner, on a short leave from the war zones, who appeared over a network broadcast a few Tuesday evenings ago. Distance did not permit his going home. Asked what he wanted most, he replied, "A kitchen". There is nothing more typical of the American home than the kitchen. It is unduplicated in England, Africa or the Far East. It is a room of beauty, of modern appliances — or you aspire to make it so. Here gas is the commonly accepted cooking fuel and perhaps it serves your refrigeration needs as well.

If you are disappointed in not being able to replace outmoded appliances at this time, remember that even an humble American kitchen is a dream to those who are denied access to it. With victory will come opportunity again to install a modern gas range with latest refinements, a silent gas refrigerator that freezes without moving parts. Meanwhile take the best possible care of the appliances you have so that they will see you through.
